THE HEROISM OF LABOR.

BY FREDERICK W. GRAYSON.

'Tis not him who, bribed by glory,
Rattling in a nation's eyes,
Tempted with a name in story—
Doth deeds of true emprise;

But 'tis him, the high, heroic
Soul, that in an humbler strife—
Labors fameless, low-born stoic—
Struggles for the means of life;

Struggles bravely—ne'er despairing,
Conquering stern, opposing fate;
Ever nobly, boldly bearing
Up against a lowly state.

'Mid the carnage and the rattle—
'Mid the stirring shout and cry—
On the gory field of battle,
Courage it may need to die.

But, beneath a weight of trouble,
None to cheer us or relieve;
Bound with wo and want to struggle—
'Tis a braver thing to live.

And the gallant heart that ever
Vict'ry gains in such a strife,
Rising by its stern endeavor,
Higher in the scale of life;

Striving on and cheering others,
Reaching nearer to the goal;
Teaching its despairing brothers—
True success is in the soul;

In that soul of fixed defiance,
'Gainst the worst that fate can do,
In that soul of self-reliance,
With each effort we renew;

Truly wins the hero's laurel,
Triumphing for human kind,
And his life's impressive moral
Lives to sway the common mind.

Valor thus no kings [illegible]—
Yet, with toil [illegible],
He for man a cause is fighting
Worth a pyramid of crowns.

THE LAST SHADOWS.

BY K. T. CONRAD.

When around the couch, long tended,
Heavier shadows settle down;
And the zephyr comes unwilling,
And the sunlight seems to frown;

Pain's familiar sense is duller,
And the sick heart's [illegible] low,
Like a caged bird, frantic, bewildered,
Seems to flutter to and fro.

When pale shadows droop perpetual
O'er the half-closed, heavy eye,
And a great Thought, chill and dreadful,
Ever whispers—[illegible]

Whispers lone, and low, and solemn,
Yet it fills the earth and sky—
'Tis the surge of Time's [illegible] ocean,
And its anthem—[illegible]

Then, when earthly hope is ashes;
Then, when earthly aid is dust—
If th' Unchanging be our champion,
And th' Eternal be our trust—

Let the worn heart throb to slumber,
With a sleep that ne'er shall wake—
Let the seraph-like voices whisper—
Angel hymns shall o'er them break.

For one orb, to us declining,
Dawns within a brighter sphere;
And the soul, starborn in Heaven,
Leaves a lingering glory here!

Miscellaneous.

Two in Heaven.

"You have two children," said I. "I have four," was the reply; "two on earth, and two in heaven."

There spoke the mother! Still her's! only "gone before!" Still remembered, loved and cherished, by the hearth and at the board: their places not yet filled; even though their successors draw life from the faithful breast where their dying heads were pillowed.

"Two in heaven!"

Safely housed from storm and tempest; no sickness there: no drooping head, nor fading eye, nor weary feet. By the green pasture, tended by the Good Shepherd, linger the little lambs of the heavenly fold.

"Two in heaven!"

Earth less attractive! Eternity nearer! Invisible cords, drawing the maternal soul upwards. "Still, small" voices, ever whispering, come! to the world-weary spirits.

"Two in heaven."

Mother of angels! Walk softly! holy eyes watch thy footsteps! cherub forms bend to listen! Keep thy spirit free from earth taint: so shall thou "go to them," though "they may not return to thee."—Olive Branch.

Advice of an Old Lady.

Now, John, listen to me, for I am older than you, or I couldn't be your mother.—Never do you marry a young woman, John, before you have contrived to happen at the house where she lives, at least four or five times before breakfast. You should know how late she lies in bed in the morning.—You should take notice whether her complexion is the same in the morning as it is in the evening, or whether the wash and towel have robbed her of her evening bloom. You should take care to surprise her, so that you may see her in her morning dress, and observe how her hair looks when she is not expecting you. If possible you should be where you can hear the morning conversation between her and her mother. If she is ill-natured and snappish to her mother, so she will be to you, depend on it. But if you find her up, and dressed neatly in the morning, with the same countenance, the same smiles, the same neatly combed hair, the same ready and pleasant answers to her mother, which characterized her deportment in the evening, and particularly if she is lending a hand to get breakfast ready in good season, she is a prize, John, and the sooner you secure her to yourself the better.

A TALE OF TRUTH.

BY REV. JAMES [illegible].

> "There surely is some guiding power,
> That rightly suffers wrong;
> Gives vice to bloom its little hour,
> But virtue late and long."

Had the reader been in the city of Philadelphia, on the 19th of February, 17—, and ascended the far-famed steeple which rests over the hall consecrated by the moral heroism of our fathers, he might have seen in the distance a noble ship, direct from the "fatherland," bearing scores of emigrants who had left relatives and friends, to seek a home in the New World. Among the number was one female, on whose features the traces of time were visible, and whose head was silvered by the frosts of near three-score winters. Though friendless and penniless, she had resolved to cross the wide waste of waters in search of her only son, who had left home at an early age, to try his fortune in a land, the glories of which his father had often portrayed to his enraptured vision. As was often the case in the period referred to, that poor mother had voluntarily bound herself to be sold for a number of years, on her arrival in the United States, for a sum sufficient to defray the expenses incident to her voyage. She was willing to brave the dangers of the great deep, to suffer all needed privations and hardships, yea, to be sold into slavery, if she could but behold her son once more in the flesh. For this she had endured, for this she had prayed, and for this she was willing to die! O, the depth and strength of a parent's love! It reaches high as heaven, deep as the foundations of the earth, and is as strong and lasting as the pillars of eternity! It will follow its object over the hills and beyond the seas, to behold and embrace it again.

Under the influence of this pure affection, the mother had left her native land, and arrived in Philadelphia on the day and year above written. It is not easy to imagine the feelings of that lone woman when she first stepped from the vessel to the wharf, and beheld the countless throng passing to and fro, as heedless of her welfare as if she bore no relationship to the great family.—On her right hand was the boundless sea; on her left, the hall in which was conceived and adopted the "Declaration of Independence," and in the very shadow of that consecrated edifice, in mind, she already beheld herself a slave! A mother of near three-score years, in search of her son, sold as a slave within the sound of the bell that first announced the birth of freedom in this New World! But her servitude was voluntary. Ere she left the land of her fathers, the soil in which lay the bones of her kindred, and where she had often prayed that her own might repose, she had given her consent to be sold into slavery; and she was now about to realize the sorrows of that condition. In the bitterness of her soul, she cried, "O, God! desolate was the look of my own land when I left it; but far more desolate the appearance of this! Darkly flowed the Weser, as, passing time-honored Bremen, it hurried us out to sea; but blackly rolled the Delaware, heading our course. And my beloved child, shall I know him, even if seen? The image of my young son, as I last beheld him, is with me; but shall I know that son, a man, who parted from my side a youth? And will that son detect, in the grief-stricken features of the old woman, the beaming face of the happy matron?"

Earnestly and fervently did she pray that the God of her fathers would watch over, protect, and save her from a cruel master. As she repaired to the place appointed for the sale, her tears fell "thick and fast," and her audible sobs revealed the anguish of her heart. There were none to whom she could look for advice, none from whom she could hope for favor; for she was "a stranger in a strange land," and her deep afflictions had so wrought upon her physical system, that she feared no person would pay her passage for a term of slavery less than her natural life. On being questioned in regard to her age, health and strength, she replied, "Three and fifty are the years of my life; and as many of them have been dark and full of trouble, my bodily infirmities are numerous. And, if it be my lot to fall into the hands of a hard master, my days will soon be numbered; but I care not how soon they are ended, if I can only embrace once more my lost son. O, my son! my son! where is he? Would to God I could see him before I die!"

At this outburst of maternal tenderness, the auctioneer roughly bade her be silent, and, with a tone and countenance that would have disgraced the chambers of the Spanish Inquisition, he cried out—"Who bids for this old woman? Her passage money is twenty-five pounds. Will any gentleman take her at this price, for a term of years less than her natural life?" A farmer, who had come some miles to purchase a person to take charge of his dairy, said, if the woman was acquainted with that business, and the captain of the vessel would vouch for her honesty, he would take the "poor object of charity" for ten years, at the price named. The captain could not do this, as he had no knowledge of her character previous to her departure from Germany. As the farmer was about to leave, muttering to himself in broken German that he would buy no woman without a recommendation, the poor old matron drew from her pocket the following note:

OLDENBURG, Germany, Dec. 10, 17—

To whom it may concern:—The undersigned respectfully represents that the bearer of this is an honorable widow, in indigent circumstances; that domestic afflictions have forced her to visit America, where she hopes to procure employment in some respectable family, whereby she may obtain a sum sufficient to pay her passage, that she may be able to accomplish the object of her mission. My former acquaintance with her deceased husband, and knowledge of her personal character, induce me to recommend her to the tender mercies of those for whom she may be called to labor. Signed,

JOHANN LONDAMMAN, Burgomaster.

This recommendation proving satisfactory, the farmer paid the sum required by Captain Scharf, of the Jungfrau, and proceeded to a magistrate to sign the agreement. The purchaser wrote his name, and underneath it the old woman wrote hers.—As the magistrate glanced at the document, he remarked, "You must be relatives, for you both have the same surname." The farmer took the paper, and seeing the name "Katharine Herzweh," asked the woman, in German, if she had a son in America.—She replied, "I have, sir." "Would you know your son?" asked he, with much emotion. "Yes," answered the old matron, "for my son's name is T. P. Herzweh, and he has the mark of a star on his breast." The farmer instantly tore open his clothing, disclosed the mark upon his breast, and clasped his mother to his heart, exclaiming, "Mother, you have bereft me of all words; only my blood speaks to you in my veins!"

And, instead of taking her home as a slave, he sent for a carriage to convey her to his house, caused the richest dainties to be spread before her, and his softest couch prepared for her repose. Here was bliss, pure and spiritual as that enjoyed by the Angels of Heaven. Kindly and affectionately did he say to his mother,

> "All is thine,
> All that life can give, affection prove,
> Is thine, and only thine; for naught
> Can be beloved as you I love."

But what was it that produced the change in the feelings of that seemingly rough man towards that poor old woman? What induced him to treat with love and veneration, her, whom but a few hours before, he had regarded as his slave? It was simply a knowledge of the fact that the being who stood before him was his own mother!

Now let the reader extend the principle involved in this "tale of truth," and he will see the legitimate tendency of Christianity. A belief in the Fatherhood of God, and the brotherhood of man, as taught by the great Saviour of the world, will induce better moral conduct than any other system of religion ever revealed to the human race. This principle was recognized by the venerable Dr. Franklin. He said, "Mankind are all of a family; therefore let good offices go round."

Legal Anecdote.

In the heat of an August afternoon, Mr. G., a lawyer out West, who is somewhat energetic in speaking, was "summing up" with his usual zeal on behalf of his client before Squire Paine, and a crowd of spectators then and there assembled. While G. was putting in his "biggest licks," a quizzical chap got behind him, and went to tickling his ear with a straw. The Justice liked the joke and kept still. G., supposing it was flies, brushed first one ear and then the other, but persevered in his speech, amid a subdued tittering. Finally, as G. happened to be pressing some novel point of law to the Justice, his friend behind put the "idea in his ear" a little more sensibly. As G. brushed his hand at the fly a little more fiercely, the Justice burst out laughing.—Whereupon G. bringing his fist almost in contact with the head of the Magistrate, rebuked him as follows:

"Your honor may laugh—but such is the law."

A Good Writer.

We recollect reading an anecdote of a young gentleman of a gin-and-water and Byronic turn of mind and collar, who was determined, in his admiration of the intellectual, not to wed unless the object of his adoration was an accomplished woman and a good writer. A practical old friend of his, who attached a very literal meaning to expressions, told him he knew a young lady who would just suit him.

The introduction took place, and the young gentleman went directly to the point.

"Miss ———," said he, "are you a writer?"

"Yeth, thur," replied she, blushing.

"Who are your favorite authors?—Johnson, Scott, Steel, Addison, Goldsmith, or whom?"

"Oh, thur," she naively replied, "I don't know nothing about them thur—I write thmall hand!"

An American Lady's Wit.

We heard a good anecdote the other day of Mrs. Patterson, of Baltimore, the American lady connected with the Bonaparte family by marriage.

Being in Italy, at an evening party, it fell to her lot to be handed in to the supper table by a young English nobleman, who, unlike most of the patricians of England, had a good share of the puppy in his composition. Thinking to quiz the old lady, he said—

"You are acquainted with the Americans, I believe?"

"Very well."

"A monstrously vulgar people, aren't they?"

"Yes; but what could you expect when you considered that they descended from the English? Had their progenitors, now, been Italians or Spaniards, we might look for some good breeding among them."

The nobleman did not venture to tread on Mrs. Patterson's toes again that evening.

☞ The venerable Dr. Lyman Beecher, in a recent Boston sermon, said that preachers' ideas should stand out like rabbits' ears, so that people could grab hold of them, and hold on to them, and get something for their pains.

A RICH ONE.

A few mornings since, as the fun loving clerk of one of the large grocery establishments, not far from Poydras street, sat quietly near the door, smoking a cigar and reading the morning paper, he was interrupted by a male specimen of the ebony colored portion of humanity, with the question:

"Massa, please tell me what is dem ar things in dat box yonder?"

The questioner, a stout, innocent, simple looking fellow, was pointing to an open box which contained vermicelli.

"Those!" said the clerk gravely, seeing that he had caught a stranger, "those are fiddle strings, Pompey."

"My name, Tim-Tim, sa," said the darkey, grinning and bowing.

"Well, Tim-Tim, that's a new fashion of fiddle strings."

"Dem fiddle strings? Gorry, massa, dey mus be mighty dear."

"Oh, no; only twenty cents a pound.—How much do you want? two pounds, or two pounds and sixteen-eighteenths?"

"Ta'nt me wants 'em massa, its my brother K'nelius. K'nelius plays on de fiddle; I plays on de fife."

"Well, where's Ker-nelius?"

"Not Ker nelius, massa," said the negro earnestly, and drawing out the "Ker," "but K'nelius!" with a quick lurk at the syllable. "He's my brother, K'nelius is; and he mighty smart nigga, I tell you. Ta'nt easy for common white trash to fool dat child; ki! ki! ki!" and the simple fellow broke out in a loud laugh.

"Tell K'nelius then," said the clerk much amused, "to come here and try some of these fiddle strings."

"Dat I'm goin' to do, massa, right off. You see, K'nelius has been searchin' for dem strings all day." And off he went.

Presently he returned, his face glistening with good humor and triumph, as he hauled along a grave, dignified darkey, whom he introduced as his, Tim-Tim's brother.

"Dat him, massa! Dat K'nelius!" Ta'nt many white folks beat dat nigga in surcumspicion. Heah dey is, K'nelius—da's de fixins—dey just fit your fiddle."

"What you ax for a bunch o' dem articles, massa?" inquired K'nelius, slowly, and with an evident idea of his own importance.

"Yes, what you ax for 'em, massa? K'nelius wants to know?" put in Tim-Tim, admiration for his brother glowing in his features.

"We don't sell them by the bunch, but by avoirdupois duodecimal weight," answered the clerk gravely.

Tim-Tim stared at his brother as these strange words were uttered; the wise Cornelius stared at the clerk.

"How you say dat, massa?" he inquired, after a while, gathering his faculties for an intellectual conflict.

"Avoirdupois duodecimal! That's the scientific name."

"Oh," said Cornelius, throwing back his head and looking at a box of tea over the tip of what nose he had. "Oh!" he continued, lowering his head and staring gloomily at Tim-Tim's shoes. Tim looked bewildered.

"Dat's book larn'ng, dat is," finally said Cornelius, raising his head proudly to its proper level, with an air, as much as to say, "you can't take me in."

"Ki! ki! ki!" burst forth Tim-Tim delighted; "I tole you massa, dat nigga mighty sarcumspicious. Nuffin fool him."

"Come boys, I can't stay here all day.—What do you say?"

"Well, I kalkilate I'll take some of dat article, massa," said Cornelius, slowly mopping his forehead and face with an immense red silk handkerchief.

"How much do you want?"

"Well massa, you kin give me a dime wuff of de book larnin'—dat's de way I dis-perfere it." And dab went the handkerchief into the bottom of an old rusty beaver.

"A dime's worth? That will be the triangle of the hypothenuse of a parallelogram."

"Yes massa, dat's it edzactly," said Cornelius, imperturbably, while Tim-Tim wondered with open mouth.

A half pound of the strings was weighed out, and the clerk was in the act of putting it up in a paper parcel, when one of the bunches slipped from his fingers, and falling on the counter, a small piece was broken off. There was a catastrophe.

Tim-Tim stared at Cornelius, and Cornelius stared at Tim-Tim. "Bress de Lor' what dat, K'n'lius?" said Tim-Tim.

"Tim-Tim, nigga, hush up your jaw!" said Cornelius.

"What's the matter, my men?" asked the clerk, nearly ready to explode with laughter, at the comical embarrassment of his customers.

"Nuffin massa, nuffin at all," said Cornelius, turning away and scraping his feet with a low bow; "sorry give you so much trouble. Come along, Tim-Tim. Good mornin', massa."

"What's the matter, my man, what's the matter?"

"Nuffin massa. Only I kalkilate I won't spend that dime to-day. I must be kenomiky dis time. I jist remember my old fiddle string last another day, any how.—And massa," said the pompous darkey, turning round at the door and putting on a look of intense sagacity, "to tell you de troof, I don't like dem book larnin' fiddle-strings, no how. It's my judgment dey won't stretch!"

☞ "Young women," said the Rev. Dr. Beecher, "whenever you see young men nibbling at cloves or nutmegs on entering a church, you may safely say, that man has just taken a dram."

Growing Old.

So long as we may grow therein in wisdom and worth it is well, it is desirable, to live, but no further. To my view, insanity is the hardest, the most appalling of earthly calamities, but how much better is an old age that drivels and wanders, misunderstands and forgets? When the soul shall have become choked and smothered by the ruins of its wasting, falling habitation, I should prefer to inhabit that tenement no longer. I should not choose to stand shuddering and trembling on the brink of the dark river, weakly drawing back from the chill of its sweeping flood, when Faith assures me that a new Eden stretches green and fair beyond it, and the baptism it invites will cleanse the soul of all that now clogs, clouds, and weighs it to the earth.—No; when the windows of the mind shall be darkened, when the growth of the soul shall have been arrested, I would not weakly cling to the earth which will have ceased to nourish and uphold me. Rather "let the golden bowl be loosed and the pitcher broken at the fountain;" let the sun of my existence go down ere the dusky vapors shroud its horizon; let me close my eyes calmly on the things of earth, and let my weary frame sleep beneath the clods of the valley; let the spirit, which it can no longer cherish as a guest, be spared the ignominy of detention as a prisoner; but freed from the fetters of clay, let it wing its way through the boundless universe, to wheresoever the benign Father of Spirits shall have assigned it an everlasting home.

☞ From the earliest age children require the most vigilant care. He who has been reared in a brawling and ill mannered nursery, can hardly be expected to ripen into a polite man. The elder members of a family should bear in mind that the influence of their own conduct will encircle the children like an atmosphere. There can be little happiness in that household in which the minutest offices are not dictated by a spirit of thoughtful courtesy and delicate consideration for others.

☞ The great law of nature is, "eat and be eaten." The spawn-eater swallows the worm, the shark swallows the spawn-eater; the hawk pounces on the chicken, the eagle on the hawk, and the sportsman on the eagle; rogues feed on honest men, pettifoggers on rogues; and the devil on pettifoggers. Queer arrangement this, but who will say that it is not all for the best? Let us turn over and reflect.

Reflection.—What a delicious balm is diffused over the whole frame, when the light is extinguished, and the head rests quietly on the pillow? If, on a strict scrutiny of the soul, we cannot discover anything which would offend our fellow creatures, then sleep is a celestial reverie.

☞ One watch set right will do to set many by; but, on the other hand, one that goes wrong may be the means of misleading a whole neighborhood; and the same may be said of the example we individually set to those around us.

Why Didn't He Wear Spectacles?—A Detroit paper is guilty of the following story of an accident which happened to a near-sighted gentleman at a ball in that city.—He waited upon his partner to a seat after a "love of a polka," when he espied the embroidered edge of a supposed handkerchief at the feet of his divinity. He hastily seized it, when the "Fy, fy, sir!" of the lady informed him that he was taking improper liberties with the scollops of her jupon.

☞ A short time since there was a fancy ball in Washington, and two young ladies with a conductor, presented themselves (not in costume) at the entrance. "Your characters?" asked the usher, in a whisper.—"We do not appear in costume, to night," said the two young ladies. "Two ladies without any characters!" bawled out the usher-in, at the top of his voice.

☞ "Halloo there, how do you sell weed?" "By the cord." "Pshaw; how long has it been cut?" "Four feet."—"How dull! I mean how long has it been since you cut it?" "No longer than it is now." "See here, old fellow; you are too all-fired bright to live long."

☞ "Do you believe in second love, Misther McQuade?" "Do I believe in second love? Humph, if a man buys a pound of sugar, isn't it sweet? and when it's gone don't he want another pound? and isn't that pound sweet too? Troth, Murphy, I believe in second love."

☞ A western editor says, if a cotemporary makes faces at his sister again, he must make up his mind to wear a slice of court plaster over his nose for the next three months. It strikes us that this is only a roundabout way of saying that "the party of the second part" must look out for what vulgar people would term "a bat over the smeller."

Editorial Notice.—An Irish brother down South says his exchange list is too large, and wishes it therefore understood that "this is to notify all those that don't receive the paper that their exchange is stopped."

How to get Poor.

Buy two glasses of ale every day, five cents each, amounting in one year to $36,50; smoke three cigars, one after each meal, counting up in the course of the year to $54,75; keep a big dog, which will consume in a year at least $15 worth of provisions, and a cat, $5 more. Altogether this amounts to the snug little sum of $110,75—sufficient to buy six barrels of flour, one hundred bushels of coal, one barrel of sugar, one sack of coffee, a great coat, a respectable dress, besides a frock for the baby, and a half dozen pair of shoes—more or less. Just think of it.

Distance to the Sun.—Imagine a railway from here to the sun. How many miles is the sun from us? Why, if we were to send a baby in an express train, going incessantly a hundred miles an hour, without making any stoppages, the baby would grow to be a boy—the boy would grow to be a man—the man would grow old and die—without seeing the sun; for it is distant more than a hundred years from us. But what is this compared to Neptune's distance?—Had Adam and Eve started by our railway, to go from Neptune to the Sun, at the rate of fifty miles an hour, they would not have got there yet; for Neptune is more than six thousand years from the centre of our system.—Household Words.

Dan Tucker in the Way Again!—Poor Dan Tucker seems to be totally deaf to the warnings of his friends. Though told over and over again, to "get out of the way," he won't do it; but runs right in the way—of all sorts of troubles. Only think of it!—A Western paper tells us that Daniel Tucker, Esq., has gone and married Jemima Ann Way. We give Dan up in despair.

☞ I compare the art of spreading rumors to the art of pin-making. There is usually some truth, which I call wire; as this passes from hand to hand, one gives it a polish, and another a point; others make and put on the head, and at last the pin is completed.—[John Newton.

☞ Next to faith in God and his overruling Providence, a man's faith in himself is his salvation. It is the secret of all power and success. It is the secret of all good luck, so called. It makes a man strong as the pillared iron, or elastic as the springing steel. It opens the gate of enterprise and wealth. And while others bow to chance or accident, he makes chance and accident bow to him; and he moulds them to his purpose, and harnesses them to the car of his fortune.

☞ The young and thoughtless should remember that the frequent use of the name of God, or the devil; allusions to passages of Scripture; mocking at anything serious or devout; oaths, vulgar by-words, cant phrases; affected hard words, when familiar terms will do as well; scraps of Latin, Greek or French; quotations from plays, spoken in a theatrical manner; all these, much used in conversation, render a person very contemptible to grave and wise men.

Anecdote.—A merchant in New York inquired of a countryman the character of a Deacon, his neighbor, who made a great profession of religion, and had applied to the merchant for credit. The countryman replied, that Godward the deacon was accounted a very honest, upright man; but manward he was a little twistical or so.—The case with a good many "professing Christians."

☞ There exists in human nature a disposition to murmur at the disappointments and calamities incident to it, rather than to acknowledge with gratitude the blessings by which they are more than counterbalanced.

☞ Melancthon was denounced by some one for changing his views upon a certain subject. He replied, "Do you think I have been studying assiduously for thirty years without learning anything?"

☞ If ever you were dangerously ill, what fault or folly lay heaviest upon your mind. Take care to root it out, without delay, and without mercy.

☞ Public men of high reputation are like lions in a menagerie, continually stirred up, that the crowd may see their size and hear their roar.

Irresistible.—A good-natured girl with eyes filled to the brim with love and Prussian blue. If you don't want a palpitation of the heart, keep away from "sich."

Maple Sugar.—At a late meeting of the Farmers' Club of New York, an article was read on the subject of maple sugar and of its great importance as one of the products of our country. By the late census it appears that the production of maple sugar in this country in 1850 was within a small fraction of thirty-four millions of pounds. An orchard of maple trees has been found almost equal, acre for acre, with the sugar cane in producing sugar and molasses.

☞ The people of the U. States smoke up, in Spanish cigars, the whole export of wheat, and drink down, in French Cogniac, the entire export of Indian corn. For the rest of our breadstuffs, the flour sent abroad suffices for something like two-thirds of the interest on the foreign debt. It requires all the hog meat—$3,765,170—to support watch-fobs; and we annually guzzle more Champagne, Port, and such mixtures of grape and alcohol, than all our beef and butter export will pay for. There is a "model Republic" for you.

☞ Choose your books as you would your companions, let them be the very best.

Quinces Love Salt.

The Quince tree seems to have a constitutional fondness for salt. We have never seen, says the Horticulturist, such superb specimens of this fruit, and such a general luxuriance of the trees, as at Newport, Rhode Island, on the Sea Coast. A gentleman who noticed this fact several years ago told us lately that he had profited by the hint, in giving to each of his trees a top-dressing of two quarts of salt every spring. By scattering the salt over the surface it dissolves slowly, and does no harm whatever to the roots, but makes both foliage and fruit more healthy.

Spiritualism in Tullytown.—Tullytown is a smart little village, on the turnpike, a few miles below Morrisville. Spiritualism, it appears, not only finds a soil suitable to its growth in Morrisville, of which fact we gave some "rappings" a few days since, but has extended as far as Tullytown.—This latter place, however, contains many unbelievers, who are very much disposed to turn this serious subject into ridicule. One night last week, a "circle" had commenced operations, and a number of the "unbelievers" were permitted to be present. After putting a variety of questions to the departed spirit, which had been aroused from its slumbers to instruct the "giddy multitude" in the mysteries of the other world, and receiving no very satisfactory answers, one of the party put the following question:

"Will the spirit inform us who is present in this room?"

A tremendous rapping commenced, so great as to alarm several women present.—All were silent and eager to hear the answer. The spirit finally answered—

"The Devil!"

A dead silence prevailed, while all present gazed intently upon each other. At last one of the "unbelievers" groaned in a very unnatural tone and set the whole party to scampering. One man ran all the way to Morrisville, and the next morning declared to several of his neighbors that the devil had kept close upon his heels the whole distance.—Trenton Gaz.

Methodism in the United States.—The editor of the Zion's Herald takes the following view of the progress of Methodism in this country. He says:

"American Methodism is not yet a century old. In the incredibly short space of eighty-seven years, it has built 4,220 churches, (which is a little less than one for every week of her existence,) at a cost of $14,730,571. It has also erected and endowed its colleges and numerous academies with large sums. It has built innumerable parsonages, and supplied itself with Church and Sabbath School literature. Now, most of these churches, having been newly erected, rebuilt, or remodelled, and most of these vast outlays having been made within the last quarter of a century, we think it no exaggeration to estimate the expenditures of Methodism in the United States for home purposes, at an average very little short of one million of dollars per annum for the last 25 years; in addition to that, it has paid for the support of its ministry."

One Hundred Miles per Hour.—"A Maine Yankee" announces, through the National Intelligencer, the invention of a form of road and improved locomotive, which, he says, will safely transport the mails and passengers at the rate of one hundred miles per hour! The writer further says he has been made acquainted with the details of these improvements, "which are so palpably correct in theory, and feasible in practice, that every civil engineer and railroad man will, on examination, at once recognize and admit, as the desideratum, even to the extent of safety and speed above indicated." The next Congress, it is said, is to be invited to secure its adoption, and give to the world the result of the first experiment. The construction of a post-railroad between Washington and New York, we think, will be hastened by this invention.

Negroes in Illinois.—A very rigid law has recently passed the Legislature of Illinois, in pursuance of the requirements of the new Constitution of that State. It provides that every negro or mulatto, bond or free, who shall come into the State and remain ten days with the evident intention of residing therein, shall be deemed guilty of high misdemeanor, and be fined fifty dollars; and if the fine is not paid forthwith, he or she is to be sold at public auction to any person who will pay the fine and costs for the shortest time—and the purchaser shall have the right to compel the negro or mulatto to work for and serve out such time. And if the offender does not leave the State within ten days from the expiration of this servitude, he or she is liable to a second prosecution, the penalty being increased to one hundred dollars; and so on, with an addition of fifty dollars to the penalty for every offence—the same proceedings being had as to sale as in the first case.

Iron Turnpike.—Iron will be the great material for almost everything at the present time. A company is being organized at Cincinnati, Ohio, to pave the turnpike from the head of Western avenue, at Brighton, to Cummonsville, Spring Grove and Carthage, with iron plates. The sides of the road will be filled with dirt, and ornamented with shade trees. The suggestion is a good one, and will make the road a fashionable drive."

The Illustrated Magazine of Art.

THIS is decidedly the Best, Cheapest, and most Magnificent Magazine ever published.

The first three numbers just out have at once placed it at the head of the Magazines or any publication of the day, upon which no expense will be spared to render it in every respect worthy of its name—a Magazine of Art.

The Engravings preparing for future numbers are in the hands of the first artists of America, England, France, and Germany; and a Series of Tales, of the most interesting description, entitled, "The School of Life," written and illustrated by Anna Mary, daughter of William and Mary Howitt, will shortly appear; as well as an historical novel, entitled, "The Dead Bridal," illustrative of the most interesting period in the history of the Venitian Republic, by "Jonathan Freke Seingsby," of the Dublin University Magazine, and contributions from William and Mary Howitt Percy B. St. John, and other writers of distinction in America and Europe. The greatest care will be manifested in every department of production. The Paper will be of the first manufacture, and the Ink supplied from the celebrated Printing Ink Establishment of Messrs. Lawson & Co., of Paris. Single copy, 25 cents; Volume, Half-yearly, $1 50; Four Copies, $5; Ten Copies, $10; Twenty-one Copies, $20. Postage, 2½ cents each number.

[From the Syracuse Journal.]

The Illustrated Magazine of Art is the very best publication of the kind of which we have any knowledge. Its engravings are of a decidedly superior kind, and its articles of a high literary character. We say this not as a puff, but as our deliberative conviction, after a careful and scrutinizing examination of the work. There is nothing flashy about it, but every department betokens a disposition on the part of the Publisher to make it valuable and instructive. The articles on King John and the Magna Charta; Gossip about Peru; the Jewish People; Lord Wm. Russell; the French Revolution, &c., are of a character which would adorn any work. Its illustrations, numbering twenty-four, among which are King John refusing to sign the Magna Charta, at Oxford, in 1215; View of the City of Lima; Apollo Gallery, in which Louis Napoleon was made Emperor; Portrait of Lord Wm. Russell; View of the Castle of Segovia; Returning from a Fair; Double size of page View of the Interior of St. Paul's Cathedral, during the interment of the Duke of Wellington, &c., are greatly in advance of those of many other publications. Price only 25 cents a number.

EDUCATION FOR EVERY FAMILY.

MAY 1ST WILL BE PUBLISHED, PRICE 12½ CENTS, PART THE FIRST OF

THE POPULAR EDUCATOR.

THIS will be found to be the most comprehensive Educational Work ever issued from the Press. It will include a regular course of instruction in English and English Grammar, French, German, and Latin. Also, Lessons in Arithmetic, Geometry, Geography, Geology, Natural History, Astronomy, Botany, Biography, Ancient History, Architecture, Physiology, Music, and other useful sciences, most of which will be illustrated with Engravings and Diagrams. The Lessons in Geography will be accompanied by a series of capital Maps, engraved on Copper, expressly for this Work. The series will include also a course of Lessons in Drawing, comprehending the numerous branches of this beautiful and useful art: namely, the Human Figure, Architecture, Landscapes, Animals, Machinery, Objects, Perspective, &c., with suitable Engravings and Diagrams.

The various departments are entrusted to Professors and Teachers of the highest eminence. The whole of the Articles and Lessons will be written in a clear and familiar style, so that young persons, and those who have not had the advantages of early education, by the study of them, obtain a safe guide and assistant to all that can increase their information, or elevate and ennoble their minds and characters. It is the determination of the Proprietor to have the Popular Educator so conducted that children equally with their parents may be interested, and general education promoted on the soundest principles, and by the most expeditious methods.

The succeeding Parts of The Popular Educator will appear on the First Day of every Month; Price 12½ cents. Postage, one cent, in advance.

What can be got for $5!

THE undersigned have entered into an arrangement by which they agree to furnish the Knickerbocker Magazine, (monthly,) the Home Journal (weekly,) and the Musical World and Times, (weekly,) to new subscribers, at the very moderate price of Five Dollars a year for the three publications; all orders, enclosing that amount to Dyer & Willis, will be promptly attended to.

Grand Literary & Artistic Combination.

Arrangements have been made to furnish the Knickerbocker Magazine, the Home Journal, and the New York Musical World and Times, to new subscribers, for FIVE DOLLARS a year! This is cheap literature, with a vengeance. The Knickerbocker is $3 per annum; the Home Journal, $2; and the Musical World and Times, $3; making $8 a year at the usual rates. That three such works can be obtained for five dollars a year, is a fact truly worthy the Caloric age, which is just now being ushered in. Of the Knickerbocker Magazine, edited by Lewis Gaylord Clark, it is unnecessary to speak. For twenty years it has been the most genial, humorous, and spicy "monthly" in the world; and the present volume will be better than any which preceded it. The Home Journal, edited by Geo. P. Morris and N. P. Willis, is well known as the best family newspaper in America; and the Musical World and Times, edited by Richard Storrs Willis, with Lowell Mason, Geo. H. Curtis, Thomas Hastings, Wm. B. Bradbury, George F. Root, and other Musical writers contributing; and which gives, among other things, over $25 worth of music, and a full course of instruction in harmony annually, is the very best musical journal ever published. These three publications will post a family up in regard to nearly everything worth knowing—Art, science, literature; music, painting, sculpture; inventions, discoveries; wit, humor, fancy, sentiment; the newest fashions, and other attractions for ladies; choice new music for the Sabbath, the Church, and the fireside; reviews and criticisms of Musical Works, performers and performances; in short, the very pick and cream of novelty, incident, history, biography, art, literature and science; including whatever can be given in periodicals to promote healthy amusement and solid instruction in the family, and help to make it wiser, better, and happier, may be now obtained for FIVE DOLLARS. Another Scientific Wonder!

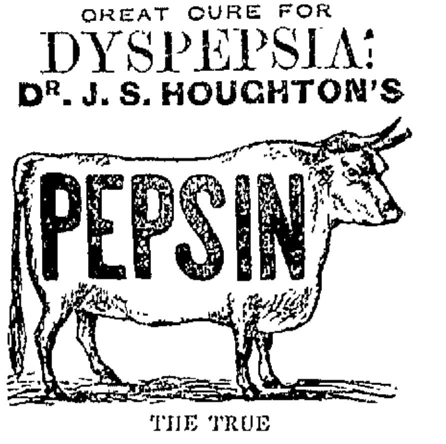
GREAT CURE FOR

DYSPEPSIA!

DR. J. S. HOUGHTON'S



THE TRUE

DIGESTIVE FLUID,

OR, GASTRIC JUICE.

PREPARED from Rennet or the fourth Stomach of the Ox after directions of Baron Liebig, the great Physiological Chemist, by J. S. Houghton, M. D., Philadelphia, Pa.

"I DIGEST." Such is the true meaning of the word Pepsin. It is the chief element, or Great Digesting Principle of the Gastric Juice—the solvent of the Food, the Purifying, Preserving and Stimulating Agent of the Stomach and Intestines. It is extracted from the Digestive Stomach of the Ox, thus forming a True Digestive Fluid, precisely like the natural Gastric Juice in its Chemical powers, and furnishing a complete and perfect substitute for it.

This is Nature's own Remedy for an unhealthy Stomach. No art of man can equal its curative powers. It contains no Alcohol, Bitters, Acids, or nauseous Drugs. It is extremely agreeable to the taste, and may be taken by the most feeble patients who cannot eat a water cracker without acute distress. Beware of Drugged Imitations. Pepsin is not a Drug.

Half a teaspoonful of Pepsin infused in water, will digest or dissolve Five Pounds of Roast Beef in about two hours, out of the Stomach.

SCIENTIFIC EVIDENCE!

☞The Scientific Evidence upon which this remedy is based is in the highest degree Curious and Remarkable.

Call on the Agent, and get a Descriptive Circular, gratis, giving a large amount of Scientific Evidence, from Liebig's Animal Chemistry; Dr. Combe's Philosophy of Digestion, Dr. Pereira on Food and Diet, Dr John W. Draper, of New York University; Professor Dunglison's Physiology; Prof Silliman, of Yale College, Dr. Carpenter's Physiology; &c, together with reports of Cures from all parts of the United States.

PEPSIN IN FLUID AND POWDER.

Dr. Houghton's Pepsin is prepared in powder and in Fluid Form—and in Prescription vials for the use of Physicians The powder will be sent by Mail, free of Postage, for one Dollar, sent to Dr. Houghton, Philadelphia.

☞Observe this!—Every bottle of the genuine Pepsin bears the written signature of J S Houghton, M D., sole proprietor. Philadelphia, Pa.—Copy right and Trade Mark secured.

☞Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicine. Price, $1 per bottle.

$500 CHALLENGE.

WHATEVER concerns the health and happiness of a people is at all times of the most valuable importance. I take it for granted that every person will do all in their power, to save the lives of their children and that every person will endeavor to promote their own health at all sacrifices. I feel it to be my duty to solemnly assure you that WORMS, according to the opinion of the most celebrated Physicians, are the primary causes of a large majority of diseases to which children and adults are liable; if you have an appetite continually changeable from one kind of food to another, Bad Breath, Pain in the Stomach, Picking at the Nose, Hardness and Fullness of the Belly, Dry Cough, Slow Fever, Pulse Irregular—remember that all these denote WORMS, and you should at once apply the remedy:—

HOBENSACK'S WORM SYRUP

An article founded upon Scientific Principles, compounded with purely vegetable substances, being perfectly safe when taken, and can be given to the most tender infant with decided beneficial effect, where Bowel Complaints and Diarrhea have made them weak and debilitated; the Tonic properties of my Worm Syrup are such, that it stands without an equal in the catalogue of medicines, in giving tone and strength to the Stomach which makes it an Infallible remedy for those afflicted with Dyspepsia; the astonishing cures performed by this Syrup after Physicians have failed, is the best evidence of its superior efficacy over all others.

THE TAPE WORM!

This is the most difficult Worm to destroy of all that infest the human system, it grows to an almost indefinite length, becoming so coiled and fastened in the Intestines and Stomach, affecting the health so sadly as to cause St. Vitus' Dance, Fits, &c., that those afflicted seldom if ever suspect that it is Tape Worm hastening them to an early grave. In order to destroy this worm, a very energetic treatment must be pursued, it would therefore be proper to take 6 to 8 of my Liver Pills so as to remove all obstructions, that the Worm Syrup may act direct upon the Worm, which must be taken in doses of 2 Tablespoonfuls 3 times a day. These directions followed have never been known to fail in curing the most obstinate case of Tape Worm.

HOBENSACK'S LIVER PILLS.

No part of the system is more liable to disease than the LIVER, it serving as a filterer to purify the blood, or giving the proper secretion to the bile, so that any wrong action of the Liver affects the other important parts of the system, and results variously, in Liver Complaint, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, &c. We should, therefore, watch every symptom that might indicate a wrong action of the Liver.—These Pills being composed of Roots and Plants furnished by nature to heal the sick; Namely, 1st. An EXPECTORANT which augments the secretion from the Pulmonary mucous membrane, or promotes the discharge of secreted matter. 2d. An ALTERATIVE, which changes in some inexplicable and insensible manner the certain morbid action of the system. 3d. A TONIC, which gives tone and strength to the nervous system, renewing health and vigor to all parts of the body. 4th. A CATHARTIC, which acts in perfect Harmony with the other ingredients, and operating on the Bowels, and expelling the whole mass of corrupt and vitiated matter and purifying the Blood, which destroys disease and restores health.

TO FEMALES.

You will find these Pills an invaluable medicine in many complaints to which you are subject. In obstructions either total or partial, they have been found of inestimable benefit, restoring their functional arrangements to a healthy action, purifying the blood and other fluids so effectually as to put to flight all complaints which may arise from female irregularities, as headache, giddiness, dimness of sight, pain in the side, back, &c.

None genuine unless signed J. N. Hobensack, all others being base imitations

THE ADAMS SENTINEL.

GETTYSBURG:

Monday, March 21st, 1853.

☞Those of our subscribers who intend removing this Spring, will please inform us of their "whereabouts," that we may know where to send their papers.

☞The time of exhibition at the Hunterstown English and Classical Academy, has been changed from Monday the 28th to Wednesday the 30th inst. See notice.

☞On Wednesday last, the House of Representatives passed a supplement to the act incorporating the Gettysburg Railroad Company. We do not know what its exact provisions are; but if in the shape it latterly has been, it will not be very acceptable to the company.

☞The Whig County Committee appointed, on Tuesday last, Dr. D. MELLINGER Representative delegate, and ROBERT G. HARPER Senatorial delegate to the Whig State Convention, which meets at Lancaster on Thursday next.

The Death Warrant.

The Sheriff of this County, JOHN SCOTT, Esq., on Wednesday evening last, received from the Governor the Warrant for the execution of JAMES GREEN, who was sentenced to death at the January Court. The execution is to take place on Friday the 15th of April, between 10, A. M. and 3, P. M.

It is generally known to the public, we presume, that public executions have been abolished, and that the death penalty is to be inflicted within the jail yard, in the presence of the Sheriff or Coroner, a physician, the attorney general, or deputy attorney general of the county, and twelve reputable citizens, to be selected by the Sheriff. Two ministers of the gospel, any of the relatives of the condemned, and other officers of the prison may also be present, but no other person. No one under age can be permitted to witness it.

We learn that the Sheriff intends to perform the unpleasant duty, in strict accordance with the law.

Borough Election.

On Friday last, the election for Judge, Inspector, Assessor and Constables took place in the Borough, and resulted in a division of the officers among the two parties—the Whigs having one Inspector, and both Constables—and the Democrats the Judge, Assessor, and one Inspector. This unusual result is owing to the negligence of the Whigs, and the activity of their opponents. The Democrats polled within 12 votes of their number at the Presidential election, whilst the Whig vote was not out by over 90! It is easy to be seen, therefore, why the result is as it has been. How Whigs can reconcile it to themselves, to be so derelict in duty, and, worse than that, even lend aid to their opponents, we cannot conceive. The Democrats appear to be considerably "tickled" at the result; but we think this partial victory is only "lent" to them. The following was the vote:

Whig.		Dem.
JUDGE.
John Weigle,	156	Jacob Culp,	166

Henry Hughes,	164	H'y Chritzman,	154

Narrow Escape.

The Hanover Spectator of Friday last, says, that on the preceding Saturday, as the cars were proceeding rapidly down the grade below the Abbottstown turnpike, where the Railway makes a sudden curve, the engineer discovered a woman on the track, walking towards the cars. Repeated notice was given by the engineer, expecting she would take the warning, which she certainly heard. The cars continued to proceed until within a few yards of her, when seeing that she would not get off, the engine was instantly reversed and stopped on the spot; although by this heroic action the engineer and fireman were in imminent danger of destruction. But the woman was saved! The engine was somewhat injured, by having both connection rods broken in two. We did not learn the name of the woman.

☞The man who was killed at the Washington Monument, in Washington, on the 4th inst., has since been identified by his friends. His name was Wm. McKenny, and had been engaged at the Navy Yard. He has left a large circle of sorrowing relatives and other friends.

☞The steamer Ohio arrived at New York on Friday, with the California mails, 450 passengers, and two millions and a half in gold on freight, besides large quantities in the hands of passengers.

☞Mr. Kennedy, Superintendent of the Census, was removed on Friday, and Mr. De Bow, of New Orleans, appointed in his room. The office-seekers have wonderfully thinned off at Washington in the last two or three days, and the hotels are comparatively deserted, and the town quiet.

☞A steamer arrived from Europe on Friday, with late dates. The market for Breadstuffs had still further declined.

☞HON. F. W. HUGHES, Secretary of the Commonwealth, has resigned his situation, and Gov. Bigler has appointed Hon. CHARLES A. BLACK, formerly member of the Senate from Greene county, as his successor. Mr. Hughes has been appointed Attorney General of this State, in the room of Judge Campbell, who is now Post-master General.

☞A man named McConnell, has been swindling Mr. Charles Burnett, of Chambersburg, out of upwards of $4,000. Mr. Burnett is largely engaged in the manufacture of windmills, and has several shops at different places in Virginia. McConnell was his superintendent, and had the control of Mr. B.'s financial business; and has managed to defraud him out of the above amount. He has disappeared, and a reward of $500 is offered for his apprehension and the money, or $200 for him alone.—McConnell is about 40 years of age, 5 feet 6 inches in height, has hazel eyes, auburn hair—inclined to be curly; his two front teeth are worn to a point, commonly called squirrel teeth; sharp features, and the point of his nose works up and down with the motion of his mouth when conversing. He is rather quick in his movements, and is so entirely original in his appearance, that if once seen, he cannot fail to be recognized afterwards.

☞A most destructive hail-storm, accompanied by a tremendous wind, occurred at Columbus, (Geo.) on the 10th inst., which lasted only ten minutes, but did immense damage. Every building in the city was injured. A large number of warehouses and dwellings were blown down or unroofed. Almost every chimney in the city was demolished. The bridge at Girard was blown down. The damage, it is estimated, will amount to at least $250,000.

☞Two human skeletons were found by some workmen last week in a sink in the cellar of a house on Market street, Phila.—They were lying beneath a large quantity of pig iron. The sink was unknown to the late occupants. In the year 1800 the house was occupied as an iron store, but how the bodies came there is a mystery.

☞On Monday last, between Elkton and Wilmington, a man sat down on the railroad track, and as a train of cars approached, placed his thumb on his nose, and gyrated his fingers at the locomotive. The whistle was blown, the breaks put down, and the driving wheels reversed, but there he defiantly sat. The conductor and a brakesman jumped off, ran ahead, sat him quietly in the mud in the side ditch, and the train moved on. He was drunk of course.

☞A female was burnt to death at Norfolk, Va., on the night of the 11th inst. by the explosion of a camphine lamp, which set fire to her clothing and burnt her person in an awful manner.

☞JOHN DICKEY, Esq., U. S. Marshal for the Western District of Pennsylvania, died very suddenly at Beaver, on Monday night last.

☞ASBURY DICKENS was re-elected Secretary of the Senate of the United States, on Thursday last; and D. R. McNair Sergeant-at-arms.

The Dauphin Story.—The New York Times states that the Prince de Joinville has written a letter to the publisher of Putnam's Magazine, acknowledging the receipt of the article concerning the "Bourbon among us," adding that he remembers meeting Reverend Eleazer Williams during his Western travels, and having a very interesting conversation with him about the Indians, but giving the Dauphin story a very flat denial.

Later from Mexico.—By advices from Mexico to the 20th ult., we learn that the probability is that Santa Anna will likely be elected President unanimously. The districts of Queretaro, Michoacan, Oajaca, Tamaulipas and Vera Cruz have voted for him, and probably San Louis, and Canales has arrived at the capital. Carvajal's men have disbanded.

Mob by Strong Minded Women.—The Cleveland Herald says that on the 1st inst., some thirty women, well backed by gentlemen, proceeded to the grocery of Anthony Jacobs, in Ashland, and asked him to discontinue the sale of liquor and the use of a bagatelle board, which had enticed many of the youth and some of the married men from their homes. He refused, and the ladies chopped his bagatelle table into kindling wood and emptied his liquors into the street. They then visited another grocery and a tavern, both of which capitulated.

☞The notorious pickpocket, Bob Sutton, who is now in Auburn State Prison, has fallen heir to property in England, by the death of a brother, to the value of $90,000. Sutton is over sixty years of age, and having been sentenced to prison for a term of years, it is very doubtful whether he will live to enjoy this unexpected freak of fortune. He has however, a family residing in St. Louis, who enjoy the good opinion and confidence of the people of that place.—N. Y. Mirror.

☞A fracas occurred a few days ago at Kerby's Landing, Queen Anne county, Md., between three brothers of the name of Anderson, during which one of them was knocked down and stabbed in three places by the others, from the effects of which it is feared he will die. The others are still at large.

Trouble Brewing.

In the Senate of the U. States, on Monday last, Mr. Mason, Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, made a speech in reply to Mr. Clayton, in regard to the Clayton-Bulwer Treaty, in the course of which he said, that the aggression of England upon the rights of Central America, was inconsistent with the Monroe doctrine and our future peace and safety; that she had been allowed to go as far as she should in her aggressions, and that this continent, and the whole continent, must be made free from her aggression. He alluded to and accepted the alternative of war in preference to any policy that would jeopardize national safety and national honor.

The position which Mr. Mason holds in the Senate, gives to his views, at this time, the highest importance.

And from accounts received, it would appear that this determination will very soon be brought to a test. News has been received from Honduras, that a British steamship had anchored off Truxillo, and demanded its surrender in the name of the Musquito King, giving but two hours to decide, under a threat of bombardment if the authorities refused. Under these circumstances, the inhabitants yielded, under protest, and the Honduras flag was pulled down, and that of the Musquito King hoisted in its place. The steamship then proceeded to Limas, and a cannonading having been heard in that quarter, it was supposed it was attacking that place, and adding it to the territory of the Musquito King, under whose name they are getting a foot-hold on the Continent. All these things may give us trouble.

Highly Important!

A protracted meeting of the Cabinet was held on Tuesday, which resulted in directing the Secretary of State to demand an explanation from the Government of Great Britain on the subject of the recent intelligence from Honduras, and the English intervention in behalf of the Musquito King. The Secretary of the Navy was instructed to report forthwith to the Executive the effective force at his disposal for active operations. The office seekers are in great consternation, as the consideration of their demands must yield to the urgent condition of our foreign relations.

The Vice President.

The oath of office was not administered to Vice President King on the 4th inst.—Mr. Rodney, the American Consul at Matanzas, visited him for the purpose, but Mr. King thought the ceremony unnecessary, fearing that he would never reach Washington to assume the office, and, if he should, the oath of office could be administered there. The impression was, that he would never be able to leave Matanzas.

☞A large number of nominations for different offices has been made to the Senate by the President, and they are pretty generally confirmed. Among the number is Mr. J. R. Clay, Minister to Peru; J. S. Fay, to Switzerland; and Mr. Heap, Consul to Tunis. It is said that the President recommends all office seekers to go home, as their applications will be carefully considered before deciding upon them.

☞The Cabinet is occupied in discussing the general policy to be pursued in reference to the Foreign relations of the government, in prospect of threatened political convulsions and movements in Europe. General Pierce is reported to be very liberally disposed towards republican efforts abroad.—Messrs. Cushing and Davis are understood to sympathize with the President in this respect. Dobbin and Campbell stand indifferent. Mr. Guthrie is cool, prudent and judicious—with the generous impulses of his Kentucky heart inclining him to favor the liberal cause, he is restrained by the scruples of a wise and deliberate discretion. Mr. Marcy is charged with an excessive conservatism in the matter.

☞An extraordinary fall of snow took place at Syracuse, N. Y. on the morning of the 3d inst. It commenced at 3 in the morning, and at 7 o'clock two feet of snow had accumulated—being at the rate of six inches an hour! We do not believe the records of meteorology will furnish any parallel to this.

☞The boiler of the steamboat Bee exploded on Wednesday last, on the Ohio river, below Evansville. Smith, one of the pilots, and Bryan, the steward, were killed. Reeder, another pilot, Stark, the first clerk, and four deck hands, were dangerously scalded.

☞Death Penalty.—In the House of Representatives of Ohio the bill for the abolition of capital punishment was defeated on the question of engrossment by one vote—yeas 33, nays 34.

☞DR. WM. E. HORNER, Professor of Anatomy in the University of Pennsylvania for more than thirty years past, and the author of several celebrated Anatomical works, died at his residence in Philadelphia, on Tuesday last, in the 60th year of his age. His loss is a public one.

☞It is reported that large deposites of gold have been discovered on Horse Shoe creek, in the Northern part of the Cherokee Nation, and large numbers of persons are leaving Kentucky for the location.

☞The first fresh Shad of the season were [illegible] in Lancaster on Monday last.

☞Wood costs $[illegible] a cord in Rome, and $45 in Naples.

The Philadelphia Murder.

The Grand Jury have found a true bill against Arthur Spring for the murder of Ellen Lynch and Hannah Shaw. His trial has been fixed for to day. The evidence, as detailed, is very strong against him—and, if true, there is no possible mode of escape from the penalty of the law. The principal witness against him, is his own son, to whom the father had communicated the whole particulars of the bloody tragedy. The papers remark that the demeanor of Spring at the examination was cool, indifferent and reckless to a shocking degree.—A fiendish smile played about his mouth all the while; and one writer says: "Never did we witness, under similar circumstances, anything that would begin to equal, in hardihood and obduracy, the behavior of this monster; and we hope that we may be spared, for the rest of our days, the pain of looking upon such a sight again."

☞The Natives and former residents of Frederick county, Md., had a social meeting and entertainment at the Eutaw House, in Baltimore, on the evening of the 10th inst., which appears to have been a very pleasant affair. Amongst those present was the Hon. JAMES COOPER, Senator from Pennsylvania.—A number of toasts were drunk, and speeches made. Mr. Cooper was toasted as follows:

James Cooper, Senator of the State of Pennsylvania.—Frederick County claims him as her son; Pennsylvania is honored by his distinguished public services.

Mr. Cooper arose, whilst the whole company cheered, and, after silence was observed, made a very lengthy address, during which he expressed himself highly gratified upon finding so many of the natives of his own county enjoying themselves at the festive board.

He reviewed in touching sentiments the scenes and friendships of his youth, glanced briefly at the prominent scenes of his political life and the continued opposition he had encountered from many quarters, yet notwithstanding, by clinging to the principles of his youth, and determining to pursue an upright and honorable course, he had succeeded in accomplishing his purposes as an honest man. He was surrounded by his brethren, and he would speak freely and unreservedly of the course he had pursued, feeling assured that they would approve. [Cheering.]

The Governor of Maryland here arose and made some remarks complimentary to Senator Cooper, as the counsel in the late Gorsuch slave case, which the Senator acknowledged in a handsome flow of ideas.

☞Graham's Magazine for April, has been received. It is the second of the new series, enlarged to 144 pages. The articles are mainly original, and from approved sources. The Pilgrims of the Great St. Bernard, and a day at Waterloo, are numerously illustrated; and the whole book is got up with much neatness, and is highly interesting.

Altered Notes.—There are in circulation five dollar bills of the Farmers' and Mechanics' Bank of Carroll county, Md., altered from one's of the same bank. The alterations are so well executed as to deceive the best judges, unless the difference between the one's and the five's of issue of that bank be remembered. The best rule to detect them is to place them side by side with the one dollar bill, when it will be found that they are the same, save the alteration. It is a dangerous note, and the public should be cautioned against it.

☞Autographs of Henry Clay being in great request, the National Intelligencer announces that the American Colonization Society has some blank certificates of membership, signed by him, as President of the Society, a few months previous to his death. One of these, with the name of the purchaser inserted, attested by the Secretary of the Society, will be forwarded by mail to any person who will send to the Secretary, Rev. W. McLain, thirty dollars, the amount required by the constitution of the Society to constitute a life member.

Hempfield Railroad.—Monongahela city, Pa., in town-meeting, has recommended an additional subscription of $25,000 to the stock of the Hempfield Railroad. This, with a previous subscription of a similar amount on the part of the borough, and private subscriptions of some $20,000, make an aggregate sum of $70,000 by the borough alone.

☞The new bill regulating the public printing has passed both branches of the Legislature, and has no doubt been signed by the Governor. It provides for the appointment by the Governor of a Superintendent of Public Printing, at a salary of $800 per annum.

The Last Day of the Session.

Surely, no American can have read the proceedings of the last hours of the late Session of Congress, without a blush.—Both Houses presented scenes of violence, confusion, haste and vulgarity, of a truly disgraceful character. Such paragraphs as these occur very frequently in the report:—

"Great confusion prevailed all over the Hall, and the galleries and lobbies were crowded with spectators."

Again, says the reporter:—

"Sundry violent struggles were occasionally made to obtain the floor, a hundred or more gentlemen rising at once, and shouting out 'Mr. Speaker,' and severally holding up the bills they were so anxious to have considered. The scenes occasioned much laughter."

Once more he pauses in his labors, to send this over the wires:—

"It was now eight o'clock. The galleries were densely crowded, and lobby members present increased in numbers. So much noise and confusion prevailed, that it was next to impossible to comprehend the legislative proceedings. Members were continually going to and returning from the outer room, in which were liquid and solid refreshments. Amendments to Navy bill still discussed and voted on. Some members, weary of the dry proceedings, retired to chat with lobby friends and smoke cigars. The falling of a lady's fan from the gallery, hitting an honorable below upon the head, but not seriously wounding him, excited some little merriment. Just about this moment a burly old member came into the Hall with a hunk of bread and ham in his hands eating thereof most heartily."

Two hours later he records:—

"It is now half past ten o'clock, the number of spectators seeming to increase rather than diminish, the excitement all over the Hall continuing without abatement."

Towards midnight, or later, says the telegraph,

"Mr. Houston, the Chairman of Ways and Means was, from the effects of excessive labor, unable to explain the various amendments. The clerks had become hoarse from continued reading. The sofas in the lobbies were now occupied by members asleep, and only a few within the bar seemed to be interested in the dull proceedings of the Indian Appropriation Bill."

At half past three the following circumstance occurred:—

"A drunken man of genteel appearance was aroused from sleep in the Senate Chamber, and commenced blaspheming in a loud and boisterous manner, disturbing the proceedings of the Senate. The officers were directed to put him out,—this was accomplished with great difficulty, and he was committed to prison under the Capitol."

In the midst of such unusual scenes as these, the most important measures were passed, and others no less important rejected. Is it not shameful, that the affairs of this country should be transacted with such headlong carelessness? If the affairs of the most insignificant private establishment were so managed, it would not merely bring down upon its proprietors instant ruin, but universal derision and contempt.

☞A Washington letter in the N. York Commercial Advertiser says—

The crowd of office seekers does not diminish—it is said to be on the increase, and will be so, until the plunder is all disposed of. Then the disappointed will go home and spend time in unavailing complaints of the ingratitude of President Pierce—each man asserting that he, individually, made Mr. Pierce the President.

Col. Benton is still here. He considers himself as a power in the State.

His attempt to browbeat Mr. Pierce did not, however, succeed. He had railed for a long time, and before everybody, against the reported appointments of Mr. Marcy and Mr. Cushing—each of whom he abused in the most shameful manner. Mr. Marcy heard of it, when he arrived here, and coolly remarked that "he expected a squall from some quarter, but that there was no capsize in that squall." When the same things were told to President Pierce he said "let him come to me."

Col. Benton did go to him, and the scene is described as having been very rich. After all Col. Benton's fierce denunciation of Mr. Cushing and Mr. Marcy, declaring that they would ruin the administration, and themselves also, he threatened to bring the matter "before the popular branch of the national legislature." Mr. Pierce is reported to have replied that there were many persons who were not particularly pleased at his nomination, nor very desirous of his election, but who now assumed to take a great deal of interest in the success of his administration. This particularly suited Col. Benton's case. All this took place before the Cabinet nominations were sent in.

The President is reported to have made a very suitable reply, on another occasion, to an attempt to exercise an improper influence over him. A person representing some Democratic club called upon him, the other day, to make certain demands, in the name of the club. The President told him, in reply, that he would always be willing to receive and hear the applications of citizens, but that he recognized no clubs.

Later From California.

The steamer Uncle Sam arrived at New York on Tuesday from Aspinwall, whence she sailed on the 8th instant. She brings one hundred passengers and over $300,000 in specie, and reports nearly $4,000,000 of gold dust on the way to New York in the steamers California and Panama.

The dates from San Francisco are to February 16th. The mining intelligence, generally, is of a cheering character. New discoveries continue to be made, and miners report a large yield from the diggings. Rubies, emeralds, and diamonds had been found in the interior. Emigration to Australia had nearly ceased.

The grain crops are very forward, and promised a rich harvest. The weather at San Francisco was delightful.

At San Francisco the prices of the leading staples were fairly maintained, excepting breadstuffs, which had materially declined. The importations of flour were heavy, and prices had declined to $12 a $13 for choice and irregular brands.

War Clouds.

The Washington correspondent of the N. Y. Journal of Commerce writes:

The state of our foreign affairs as connected with the present tone and temper of the people of this country, is becoming very interesting, and to some very alarming.—The questions involved in present disputes with Great Britain are precipitated upon the government by the tone of the Inaugural, the speeches of leading Senators, and also an important portion of the public press.

The American ground is, distinctly, that in all matters relative "to American continents," (the British North American colonies excepted,) Great Britain must give way to us, or, as Mr. Mason stated it to-day, these continents must be free from British aggression. Now, if Great Britain will not abandon the Bay Islands, and the Musquito protectorate, and the Belize, &c., will the government attempt to drive her out? Will they resort to war as a remedy? The speeches of Mr. Douglass and Mr. Mason look toward it.

Mr. Mason declared to-day that England had gone as far as she could go on this continent, consistently with our safety; and he referred to new aggressions, on the part of Great Britain, of which we have advices to-day. Mr. Mason, of course, represents the policy of the Administration on the subject of Foreign affairs, and his views, as expressed to-day, fall in with those of the Inaugural Address.

The greatest importance is to be attached to the views thrown out by leading Senators, on public questions, at the present extra session.

Mr. Mason intends to insist upon action, at this session, on the Tehuantepec resolutions.

Accidents.

The Mountain Sentinel of Thursday week, gives the following chapter of accidents:

On Wednesday last, a laborer, Mr. Owen Reily, was killed on McGrann & Reily's section, Pennsylvania Railroad. While engaged at work about a derrick, used for raising large stone, the pivot of the same broke, and the huge beam fell upon him with such force that he survived but an hour.

Patrick Hannegan, aged 30, a laborer for Messrs. McGrann & Reily, in attempting to jump on a car opposite McGinley's hotel, Summit, on Thursday last, fell upon the track and was run over. The wheels of the car passed over his right thigh and arm, mangling him in an awful manner. He died in a few moments.

On the same day, the same car at the head of Plane No. 4, ran over John McAvoy, aged about 30, who worked for Rutter & son at the tunnel, cutting both legs off below the knees. He died on Sunday.

Friday afternoon, on the section of Messrs. Burke & Gondor, new A. P. R. R., Wm. Shay, aged 48, was killed by a bank of earth falling upon him in the pit where he was working.

Same day, Michael McGovern, a workman for John McGovern, section 18, Portage R., had an arm badly broken. He was caught between two carts as they were passing each other.

Sunday afternoon, on the section of McGrann and Reily, Richard Correll and his horse fell over a bank 25 feet, breaking several of his ribs and injuring the horse.

The American Exploring Expedition on the River Amazon.—The Panama Echo learns from Captain Thomas, who arrived in the Nueva Grenada, that the day before the steamer sailed an express arrived, overland, from the American exploring expedition on the Amazon, that the explorers had reached a point on the river, in nearly a direct line, some three hundred and seventy-five miles distant. There they had found a magnificent and most productive country, with resources beyond conception. Cotton sheeting stood at 50 cents per yard; coffee and indigo at 2 cents, and all other products at proportionate prices—cutlery, especially, being very high. The imports are fully equal in their rates to the exports.

It seems, by the statements of Capt. H. and others, that the Yankee steamer will secure the bonus of $10,000 offered by the government for the first steam vessel navigating the waters of the Amazon into Bolivia, and also the entry of her entire cargo duty free.

Extraordinary Outrage.

The St. Louis Republican relates the particulars of an infamous outrage which occurred in Clark county, Mo., at a recent quarterly conference of the Methodists.—Just as the morning exercises were finished, a Dr. Trabue came up to Rev. C. H. Kelly, presented a pistol, and, laying his hand upon him, said, "You are my prisoner; cross your hands; I am the Marshal of Missouri." Kelly was charged with being an escaped convict from the penitentiary in Iowa, and, in spite of the representation that he was preaching in Clark county at the time alleged, Dr. Trabue persisted in taking him away.

After Kelly's hands were tied and his legs chained, Trabue said, "This man has stolen a horse, and I'll take him to justice." He was taken out of the house, notwithstanding the remonstrances of his friends, placed upon a horse, and secured by a chain being passed under the horse, and fastened on each foot with a heavy padlock.

The pretended Marshal and his assistants proceeded as rapidly as possible to Fort Madison, Iowa, where the penitentiary is located, and presented their victim to the keeper. He at once declared that he was not the man sought for—one Charles H. Kelly, who had escaped from the penitentiary—and that he bore no resemblance to him. He was, of course, discharged.

☞A heart-rending casualty occurred in this vicinity on Tuesday. A gentleman left the city with his wife and infant child in a sleigh, to go to his residence, a few miles out of town. In order to shield the infant from the weather, it was wrapped up very closely, and as it remained quiet they supposed it was asleep; but arriving at the place of their destination, it was taken from its manifold wrappers, when the fearful fact became apparent that it had been smothered to death. The infant was but four or five weeks old. The anguish of the parents can better be imagined than described.—Portland Advertiser.

Wheat in Ohio.—According to official returns Ohio has averaged thirty millions of bushels of wheat for the last three years, of which, sixteen millions are a surplus, after feeding all its own inhabitants.

Murder.

An affray occurred near Mercersburg, on Friday evening, (March 11,) between two negroes named Johnson Burgess and Nathan Freeman, which resulted in the death of the latter, and is but another of the many cases of crime almost daily added to the list caused by whiskey. The father of Burgess, it seems, keeps a sort of groggery, or at least sold whiskey; and on the evening of the murder, Freeman went there to get his bottle filled. From some cause unknown to us, Burgess wanted the bottle, when a scuffle ensued in which Freeman got Burgess down. While in this position Burgess succeeded in getting a knife from his pocket and stabbed Freeman seven times. The wounded man died the next day. Burgess escaped and has not yet been apprehended.—Franklin Rep.

The Tragedy in Philadelphia.—The Philadelphia American says the evidence already obtained, points, almost beyond a doubt, to Arthur Spring as the murderer of Mrs. Lynch and Mrs. Shaw. It is also said, the dirk-knife, the leaden pipe, several twenty dollar gold pieces, &c., have been traced to a source from which it would almost seem impossible for an explanation to be made. Spring, who strongly protests his innocence, is in custody; so is also his son. Lynch, the husband of Mrs. Lynch, on arriving in New York, got upon a spree. Information of his wife's fate reached him on Friday evening. The news aroused him from his debauch, but the blow which was stunning and overwhelming, was too much for him to bear, and he was completely prostrated and unmanned, and reason partially dethroned. When discovered, he was helpless, and his mind fast verging on insanity. He had already contemplated suicide. By proper restoratives he was in a condition to accompany the officers to Philadelphia on Monday evening. Spring, who is about 45 years of age, some 12 years ago, kept a public house out near Fairmount. He then moved to Market, near thirteenth, where he carried on a confectionary, and where he became deeply involved. After taking the benefit of the insolvent law, he was prosecuted for obtaining a cask of liquor by fraud, and was sentenced to a short term of imprisonment. Upon his liberation he went to New York, and opened a public house. His business there was broken up by his conviction and sentence to Sing Sing, for robbing one of his boarders. After serving out his imprisonment there, he came back to Philadelphia, and has been lounging about ever since.

Desperate Attempt to Murder.—Sarah Smith, a colored girl, has been arrested in Chester county, Pa., charged with attempting to murder a little daughter of A. W. Pennock, aged 5 years. It appears she took the child to a barn, and, notwithstanding its cries and entreaties, put a rope around its neck, and drew it tight until she silenced it by strangulation; when, supposing it dead, she loosened the rope and threw her on her face in the garden. Fortunately it was discovered by an Irish servant girl soon after, but it was several hours before it could articulate a word. The negro girl was arrested, and made a confession alleging she intended to murder the child for slapping her face.

Dreadful Design.—The Angelica, N. Y. Reporter corrects a misapprehension in regard to the motive which inspired the two men convicted in Allegheny county of placing obstructions on the track of the Erie Railroad, and assigns one almost too horrible for belief. The Reporter says, strange as it may seem, the facts elicited by the evidence showed conclusively that there was no animosity on the part of the two individuals against the Company, or that there was the least cause of complaint against the Company; but that it was a preconcerted plan to throw the "Express" Train from the track for the purpose of robbing the passengers! in the general melee. This was proved on the trial.

Youthful Criminals.—In the New York City Criminal Court on Saturday week, 3 boys under 19 years of age, convicted of highway robbery, were brought up for sentence.

Judge Beebe, in passing sentence, remarked that it was a melancholy sight to behold three young men, just branching into manhood, convicted of a crime next only to murder. The Court could, said he, imprison you all for the term of your natural lives. But the Court does not feel disposed to imprison you for your life time. The lowest term within the power of the Court will deprive you of your liberty for a long time; and the probability is that you, Kelhoe, will never behold your aged mother again, who is now in Court so sorely afflicted at your departure. The sentence of the Court is, that each of you be confined in the State Prison at Sing Sing for the term of ten years and one month.

While the officers were in the act of removing the prisoners to their cells in the city prison, a heart-rending scene was witnessed. The mothers, and other relatives of the felons, rushed through the entrance, screaming and lamenting. They clung around the necks of the convicts, and it was with difficulty the police officers could get them to retire and allow them to perform their duties in remanding the prisoners.

WYOMING, Pa., March 15.—The Wyoming Seminary, at Kingston, near Wilkesbarre, Pa., took fire last night. The south end of the building was all destroyed, with its contents, except a portion of the instruments. The valuable library was burnt; and the pupils, numbering 300, lost nearly all their books and clothing. The institution was under the charge of the Rev. R. Nelson. The loss is estimated at $21,000, and the insurance is $7,500.

A Generous Offer.—It is said that Gen. Abner Curtis, a great shoe manufacturer of East Abbington, Mass., has issued proposals to some twenty or thirty young men in his manufacturing ware-house, that if they will, the current year, be prudent, economical, and faithful in their duties—show a balance sheet of savings, individually, of one hundred and fifty dollars, and consummate marriage on or before the first day of January next ensuing, then he will add, as a New Year's present, a house lot upon his domain, and one hundred dollars for the purpose of assisting in the erection of a cottage-house, severally, for his corps of assistants aforesaid.

AUSTRIA.

Vienna letters are full of the recent attempt on the life of the Emperor. The assassin says he had no accomplices. He had it in contemplation for three years.—He had been watching for three weeks to find the Emperor unattended. When he was taken to prison, he cried "Vive Kossuth."

Fears were felt of an outbreak throughout Hungary. Twenty travellers had been arrested at Pesth. The garrison of the city was kept constantly under arms, and sentinels posted at the gates leading to the fortress of Buda.

TURKEY.

Letters from Constantinople, of the 6th instant, announce that Count Leiningen had sent the Austrian ultimatum to the Porte respecting Montenegro, to which he required a definite answer in five days. The ultimatum demanded the cession by Turkey to Austria of the two ports of Kleck and Sutornia. The Porte refused the demand, and the Austrian troops were marching on the Turkish frontier. A Paris Journal says that as soon as the Divan heard of the Austrian Ultimatum, the French and English Ambassadors were sent for, and had several conferences on the subject. It was rumored at Vienna, on the 21st, that it had been agreed to refer the subject to the decision of France. The Porte, it is said, has given assurances to Austria that the Polish and Hungarian refugees serving in the Turkish Army will be recommended to go to America, excepting those who have embraced the Islamist faith.

A telegraphic despatch to the French Government states that, on the rejection by the Porte of the Austrian Ultimatum, the Austrian flag was struck, and Count Leiningen, with the whole Austrian Legation, left for Constantinople.

The Porte considers itself under the protection of France and England.

The Cologne Gazette says that Austria had rejected the proffered arbitration of France and England in the dispute with Turkey.

Singular Discovery of a Murder.—The following interesting narrative has been communicated by a gentleman at present residing in Russia to his friends in Macclesfield:—About two years ago a vessel left Archangel on an expedition to the coast of Greenland, to collect Walrus tusks, seal oil, skins, &c. On the voyage the crew, or a part, rather, mutinied, murdered the captain, and ended the tragedy by leaving two of the crew to perish on the inhospitable shores of Greenland, giving them little or no food whereby to prolong their existence. One of the men, however, took on shore a gun, and that eventually led to the discovery of the mutiny and the murder.

Many of the Russian peasantry are very ingenious and expert with the hatchet and knife, and one of the poor fellows so cruelly deserted by the unfeeling crew, before he died, had succeeded in carving on the stock of the gun a history of the voyage, the mutiny, the murder, and the desertion, so clearly, that the whole story was deciphered without much difficulty. It happened that another vessel, which had been sent to the same coast, and for a similar purpose, touched in the Spring of the year at the very place where the remains of the poor fellows were lying, and by the side of one of them the gun which told the whole tale. This the discoverers brought away with them, and on their return to Archangel it was placed before the authorities. The guilty parties were traced, but were at sea. On their return, however, they were apprehended on landing, tried, and convicted, and are now waiting the execution of their sentence. In Russia, however, there are now no capital punishments; but the flogging inflicted is often so severe that the wretches seldom survive its infliction.

"The Gray Mare the Better Horse"—The Bangor Whig relates that in the little town of Eddington, there is a family consisting of six children, the mother of whom is robust, healthy and active, but the father is of quite a different character. It had been arranged that the wife should go to California and make her "pile," whilst the husband should stay at home and take care of the children. This arrangement was mutually satisfactory, and the woman obtained her outfit for the land of gold. On arriving at New York she found an opportunity to cook during her passage out, and she immediately sent back to her family fifty dollars of her funds, and has gone on her way rejoicing, and with the determination to get her share of the gold of California.

A Rebuff.—A worthy man in Boston recently visited a "medium" to witness the wonders of spiritual rappings. He had lived twelve years with a notorious shrew, who at last died, soon after which he married a young woman of comely person and pleasant disposition. On inquiring if any spirits were present, he was answered by raps in the affirmative. "Who?" "The spirit of Penelope Ann, your deceased wife." "Ah!" exclaimed he, with a gesture of alarm; but recovering himself, he kindly inquired, "are you satisfied with your condition? Are you happy?"—"Perfectly so," replied the spirit. "So am I!" gruffly exclaimed the ungallant inquirer, as he turned upon his heel and walked off.

Terrible Picture of Suffering.—In a letter to the Galena Advertiser, written from Oregon, the sufferings of an emigrant party are briefly given, which make up a sad picture of Western adventure:—J. C. Morrison, of Tazewell county, arrived safely in Oregon. Their teams gave out 500 miles this side of their destination. They left their oxen and those who had families, and started down the Lewis river on the beds of their wagons; and out of twenty young men so embarked, only four ever got ashore alive, so rapid was the stream and so full of rocks. The four having escaped, started through an uninhabited country, with but little provisions and few clothes. They arrived at the settlement at last, after passing through trials and dangers beyond the power of tongue or pen to describe.

New York Oyster Trade.—The yearly sales of oysters in New York City, it is estimated, exceed five millions of dollars; the number of persons connected with the business, directly or indirectly, is said to be about fifty thousand. Of the whole amount of oysters sold in that market, about two-thirds come from Virginia, which has a more extensive oyster trade than any other State in the Union.

The Susquehanna Railroad.—It has been heretofore stated that operations have been commenced on this important road, and that the work will be prosecuted with energy and vigor. The only drawback is the scarcity of hands, of whom some two thousand are now wanted by the contractors. The Williamsport and Elmira road, we learn, has also been put under contract, and a large force is at work upon it. It is confidently expected that both these roads will be finished in eighteen months from this time, and thus the great chain of railroad from Baltimore to the Lakes will be completed, and by a shorter route than from Philadelphia or New York. The distance from Baltimore to Buffalo will be 393 miles, so that passengers can without difficulty breakfast in Baltimore in the morning and sup in Buffalo the same night. We may therefore reasonably expect for this route all the great and increasing travel between the South and North-west which has heretofore gone by way of New York. Besides this a large amount of mineral and agricultural produce will find its way to Baltimore over this road.

The Course of True Love, &c.—A singular instance of love in adversity is that of a couple at present confined as vagrants in the jail of Hamilton county, Ohio. They have been engaged to be married for two years, but since which period they have never been out of limbo at the same time, though each has been at liberty some twenty times. The damsel serves out the term of her incarceration, but before her lover is also free, she is re-arrested as a vagrant and sent back. And thus also with the swain; when free he gets to pondering over the delights of connubial felicity, takes a "snifter," or two from an excess of joy, gets drunk and is returned to the lock-up. They both now almost despair of being out together long enough to be married.

News from Australia.—Advices from Australia to Nov. 15 state that a short time previous, four vessels had left Victoria with 447,000 ounces of gold, and that there were 150 sail of vessels lying at Melbourne. Several new gold diggings had been discovered, but much distress prevailed among miners on account of the high price of provisions. Flour was selling at £43 a £46 per bbl. Rents were enormously high—as much as £4 a £5 a week being paid for a small three roomed cottage. Emigrants by thousands were pouring into the country.

☞Many persons refuse to use Nixon's celebrated Tetter Ointment upon their body because it has been tried and found a sure cure for Scratches in Horses, thinking that it must necessarily be a compound of coarse and nauseous materials. Such, however, is not the fact—the materials used in its composition are as delicate and harmless as any known in Chemical Science, but at the same time highly efficacious in all the diseases for which it is intended. In the most inveterate cases of Tetter, Ringworm, Itch, Scald Head, &c., it makes the skin as soft and smooth as an infant's, and when used upon the head, removes all dandruff and gives to the Hair and Scalp a healthful vigor. Let the afflicted TRY IT—that is all that is necessary.

☞"I DIGEST!" Such is the true meaning of the word "Pepsin," or of the two Greek words from which it is derived. This is the significant and appropriate title of the True Digestive Fluid, or Gastric Juice, prepared by Dr. J. S. Houghton, of Philadelphia, from the fourth Stomach of the Ox, for the cure of Indigestion and Dyspepsia. It is Nature's own remedy for an unhealthy Stomach. No art of man can equal its curative powers. It renders Good Eating perfectly consistent with Health. See the figure of the Ox, in another page of this paper.

On the 2[illegible] inst., Mrs. CATHARINE LICHOLTZ, widow of Mr. Jacob Licholtz, of Butler township, in the 79th year of her age.

On the 5th inst., Mrs. ELIZABETH BUSHEY, widow of Jacob Bushey, deceased, formerly of Cumberland township, aged 72 years 2 months and 15 days.

In New Oxford, on the 7th inst., JOHN, infant son of Mr. John McSherry, aged 4 months and 21 days.

COMMUNICATED.

On the 23d inst., at Cherry Grove, Carroll county, Illinois, HARVEY WILSON ELLIOT, formerly of this county, aged 22 years and 1 month.

How sweet to the [illegible]
Where sorrow cannot reach the breast—
Where all life's [illegible] no longer rave,
And pain is lulled to rest.
Escaped o'er fortune's troubled wave,
To anchor in the silent grave.

The breath of slander cannot come
To break the calm that lingers there;
There is no dreaming in the tomb—
No waking to despair;
Unkindness cannot wound us more,
And all life's bitterness is o'er.

Cod Liver Oil.—The Baltimore American states, at the suggestion of a physician of eminence, that this nauseous medicine may be administered without the least disgust to a patient, by chewing and swallowing a small quantity of the roe of a smoked herring both before and after taking the spoonful of oil. A piece of sardine will answer, if herring is not palatable. The disguise is perfectly effectual, and the most delicate patient may thus use the physic with comfort.

Can this be True?—The farmers in Berks county, Pa., are opposed to the erection of the new county of Madison, because they had already far enough to go to the Philadelphia market, without going through another county! No wonder the project, so much needed, has thus far failed in getting the assent of the Legislature.

A CARD.

THE Summer Session of the NEW OXFORD COLLEGIATE & MEDICAL INSTITUTE for 1853 to '54, will open in its various branches on Monday the 11th of April next, and continue till the 1st of October next.

Prices for tuition as heretofore, viz: $12 in the Collegiate, and $20 in the Medical Department: payment in advance.—[No extra charge whatever.]

For Pupils sent from a distance, the Principal will, if desired, procure board, washing and mending in respectable houses for $75 per annum, payment quarterly in advance.

Parents and Guardians, who wish their sons or wards to receive a thorough education, without endangering their Physical or moral health, are invited to come and examine the Institute personally, since the evidence of our own senses is more to be relied upon, than on any other.

M. D. G. PFEIFFER, M. D. Principal.

N. B. The public semi-annual examination of the pupils at the Institute will take place at the time fixed, viz: the last Monday in March, this year falling on the 28th of said month, and commences at 9 o'clock, A. M., on said day. Exercises in Declamation and Composition at early candle light. Persons feeling interested in the advancement of knowledge and humanity, will, we may confidently hope, not regret the time spent, if they favor us with their company on the occasion, from the commencement. HUNTERSTOWN
English & Classical Academy.

THIS young and flourishing Institution having met with good encouragement, the Board of Trustees have determined to enlarge the sphere of its operations, and to this end have elected an Assistant Principal, Mr. F. L. STEWART, a graduate of Jefferson College, of the highest character, who has signified his acceptance, and will enter upon the discharge of his duties at the opening of the next Session.

By an action of the Board of Trustees, the Rev. I. N. HAYS has been associated in the management of the Institution. He will assist in giving instruction, and have special charge of the temporal and spiritual well-being of the Students.

All the branches usually taught in Academies, being systematically divided amongst the several Instructors, we confidently believe that our Institution has claims upon the public patronage not surpassed by any Institution of the kind.

The next session will commence on the last Thursday (28th) of April.

THE ADAMS SENTINEL AND GENERAL ADVERTISER.

THE ADAMS SENTINEL.

GETTYSBURG:

Monday, March 21st, 1853.

☞Those of our subscribers who intend removing this Spring, will please inform us of their "whereabouts," that we may know where to send their papers.

☞The time of exhibition at the Hunterstown English and Classical Academy, has been changed from Monday the 28th to Wednesday the 30th inst. See notice.

☞On Wednesday last, the House of Representatives passed a supplement to the act incorporating the Gettysburg Railroad Company. We do not know what its exact provisions are; but if in the shape it latterly has been, it will not be very acceptable to the company.

☞The Whig County Committee appointed, on Tuesday last, Dr. D. MELLINGER Representative delegate, and ROBERT G. HARPER Senatorial delegate to the Whig State Convention, which meets at Lancaster on Thursday next.

The Death Warrant.

The Sheriff of this County, JOHN SCOTT, Esq., on Wednesday evening last, received from the Governor the Warrant for the execution of JAMES GREEN, who was sentenced to death at the January Court. The execution is to take place on Friday the 15th of April, between 10, A. M. and 3, P. M.

It is generally known to the public, we presume, that public executions have been abolished, and that the death penalty is to be inflicted within the jail yard, in the presence of the Sheriff or Coroner, a physician, the attorney general, or deputy attorney general of the county, and twelve reputable citizens, to be selected by the Sheriff. Two ministers of the gospel, any of the relatives of the condemned, and other officers of the prison may also be present, but no other person. No one under age can be permitted to witness it.

We learn that the Sheriff intends to perform the unpleasant duty, in strict accordance with the law.

Borough Election.

On Friday last, the election for Judge, Inspector, Assessor and Constables took place in the Borough, and resulted in a division of the officers among the two parties—the Whigs having one Inspector, and both Constables—and the Democrats the Judge, Assessor, and one Inspector. This unusual result is owing to the negligence of the Whigs, and the activity of their opponents. The Democrats polled within 12 votes of their number at the Presidential election, whilst the Whig vote was not out by over 90! It is easy to be seen, therefore, why the result is as it has been. How Whigs can reconcile it to themselves, to be so derelict in duty, and, worse than that, even lend aid to their opponents, we cannot conceive. The Democrats appear to be considerably "tickled" at the result; but we think this partial victory is only "lent" to them. The following was the vote:

Whig.		Dem.
JUDGE.
John Weigle,	156	Jacob Culp.	166
INSPECTOR.
Henry Hughes,	164	H'y Chritzman.	154
ASSESSOR.
W. C. Stallsmith.	153	Wm. B. Meals.	165
CONSTABLES.

Narrow Escape.

The Hanover Spectator of Friday last, says, that on the preceding Saturday, as the cars were proceeding rapidly down the grade below the Abbottstown turnpike, where the Railway makes a sudden curve, the engineer discovered a woman on the track, walking towards the cars. Repeated notice was given by the engineer, expecting she would take the warning, which she certainly heard. The cars continued to proceed until within a few yards of her, when seeing that she would not get off, the engine was instantly reversed and stopped on the spot; although by this heroic action the engineer and fireman were in imminent danger of destruction. But the woman was saved! The engine was somewhat injured, by having both connection rods broken in two. We did not learn the name of the woman.

☞The man who was killed at the Washington Monument, in Washington, on the 4th inst., has since been identified by his friends. His name was Wm. McKenny, and had been engaged at the Navy Yard. He has left a large circle of sorrowing relatives and other friends.

☞The steamer Ohio arrived at New York on Friday, with the California mails. 450 passengers, and two millions and a half in gold on freight, besides large quantities in the hands of passengers.

☞Mr. Kennedy, Superintendent of the Census, was removed on Friday, and Mr. De Bow, of New Orleans, appointed in his room. The office-seekers have wonderfully thinned off at Washington in the last two or three days, and the hotels are comparatively deserted, and the town quiet.

☞A steamer arrived from Europe on Friday, with late dates. The market for Breadstuffs had still further declined.

☞Hon. F. W. HUGHES, Secretary of the Commonwealth, has resigned his situation, and Gov. Bigler has appointed Hon. CHARLES A. BLACK, formerly member of the Senate from Greene county, as his successor. Mr. Hughes has been appointed Attorney General of this State, in the room of Judge Campbell, who is now Post-master General.

☞A man named McConnell, has been swindling Mr. Charles Burnett, of Chambersburg, out of upwards of $4,000. Mr. Burnett is largely engaged in the manufacture of windmills, and has several shops at different places in Virginia. McConnell was his superintendent, and had the control of Mr. B.'s financial business; and has managed to defraud him out of the above amount. He has disappeared, and a reward of $500 is offered for his apprehension and the money, or $200 for him alone.—McConnell is about 40 years of age, 5 feet 6 inches in height, has hazel eyes, auburn hair—inclined to be curly; his two front teeth are worn to a point, commonly called squirrel teeth; sharp features, and the point of his nose works up and down with the motion of his mouth when conversing. He is rather quick in his movements, and is so entirely original in his appearance, that if once seen, he cannot fail to be recognized afterwards.

☞A most destructive hail-storm, accompanied by a tremendous wind, occurred at Columbus, (Geo) on the 10th inst., which lasted only ten minutes, but did immense damage. Every building in the city was injured. A large number of warehouses and dwellings were blown down or unroofed. Almost every chimney in the city was demolished. The bridge at Girard was blown down. The damage, it is estimated, will amount to at least $250,000.

☞Two human skeletons were found by some workmen last week in a sink in the cellar of a house on Market street, Phila.—They were lying beneath a large quantity of pig iron. The sink was unknown to the late occupants. In the year 1800 the house was occupied as an iron store, but how the bodies came there is a mystery.

☞On Monday last, between Elkton and Wilmington, a man sat down on the railroad track, and as a train of cars approached, placed his thumb on his nose, and gyrated his fingers at the locomotive. The whistle was blown, the breaks put down, and the driving wheels reversed, but there he defiantly sat. The conductor and a brakesman jumped off, ran ahead, sat him quietly in the mud in the side ditch, and the train moved on. He was drunk of course.

☞A female was burnt to death at Norfolk, Va., on the night of the 11th inst. by the explosion of a camphine lamp, which set fire to her clothing and burnt her person in an awful manner.

☞JOHN DICKEY, Esq., U. S. Marshal for the Western District of Pennsylvania, died very suddenly at Beaver, on Monday night last.

☞ASBURY DICKENS was re-elected Secretary of the Senate of the United States, on Thursday last; and D. R. McNair Sergeant-at-arms.

The Dauphin Story—The New York Times states that the Prince de Joinville has written a letter to the publisher of Putnam's Magazine, acknowledging the receipt of the article concerning the "Bourbon among us," adding that he remembers meeting Reverend Eleazer Williams during his Western travels, and having a very interesting conversation with him about the Indians, but giving the Dauphin story a very flat denial.

Later from Mexico.—By advices from Mexico to the 20th ult., we learn that the probability is that Santa Anna will likely be elected President unanimously. The districts of Queretaro, Michoacan, Oajaca, Tamaulipas and Vera Cruz, have voted for him, and probably San Louis, and Canales has arrived at the capital. Carvajal's men have disbanded.

Mob by Strong Minded Women.—The Cleveland Herald says that on the 1st inst., some thirty women, well backed by gentlemen, proceeded to the grocery of Anthony Jacobs, in Ashland, and asked him to discontinue the sale of liquor and the use of a bagatelle board, which had enticed many of the youth and some of the married men from their homes. He refused, and the ladies chopped his bagatelle table into kindling wood and emptied his liquors into the street. They then visited another grocery and a tavern, both of which capitulated.

☞The notorious pickpocket, Bob Sutton, who is now in Auburn State Prison, has fallen heir to property in England, by the death of a brother, to the value of $90,000. Sutton is over sixty years of age, and having been sentenced to prison for a term of years, it is very doubtful whether he will live to enjoy this unexpected freak of fortune. He has however, a family residing in St. Louis, who enjoy the good opinion and confidence of the people of that place.—N. Y. Mirror.

☞A fracas occurred a few days ago at Kerby's Landing, Queen Anne county, Md., between three brothers of the name of Anderson, during which one of them was knocked down and stabbed in the [illegible] by the others; from the effects of which it is feared he will die. The others are still at large.

Trouble Brewing.

In the Senate of the U States, on Monday last, Mr. Mason, Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, made a speech in reply to Mr. Clayton, in regard to the Clayton-Bulwer Treaty, in the course of which he said, that the aggression of England upon the rights of Central America, was inconsistent with the Monroe doctrine and our future peace and safety; that she had been allowed to go as far as she should in her aggressions, and that this continent, and the whole continent, must be made free from her aggression. He alluded to and accepted the alternative of war in preference to any policy that would jeopardize national safety and national honor.

The position which Mr. Mason holds in the Senate, gives to his views, at this time, the highest importance.

And from accounts received, it would appear that this determination will very soon be brought to a test. News has been recieved from Honduras, that a British steamship had anchored off Truxillo, and demanded its surrender in the name of the Musquito King, giving but two hours to decide, under a threat of bombardment if the authorities refused. Under these circumstances, the inhabitants yielded, under protest, and the Honduras flag was pulled down, and that of the Musquito King hoisted in its place. The steamship then proceeded to Limas, and a cannonading having been heard in that quarter, it was supposed it was attacking that place, and adding it to the territory of the Musquito King, under whose name they are getting a foot-hold on the Continent. All these things may give us trouble.

Highly Important!

A protracted meeting of the Cabinet was held on Tuesday, which resulted in directing the Secretary of State to demand an explanation from the Government of Great Britain on the subject of the recent intelligence from Honduras, and the English intervention in behalf of the Musquito King. The Secretary of the Navy was instructed to report forthwith to the Executive the effective force at his disposal for active operations. The office seekers are in great consternation, as the consideration of their demands must yield to the urgent condition of our foreign relations.

The Vice President.

The oath of office was not administered to Vice President King on the 4th inst.—Mr. Rodney, the American Consul at Matanzas, visited him for the purpose, but Mr. King thought the ceremony unnecessary, fearing that he would never reach Washington to assume the office, and, if he should, the oath of office could be administered there. The impression was, that he would never be able to leave Matanzas.

☞A large number of nominations for different offices has been made to the Senate by the President, and they are pretty generally confirmed. Among the number is Mr. J. R. Clay, Minister to Peru; J. S. Fay, to Switzerland; and Mr. Heap, Consul to Tunis. It is said that the President recommends all office seekers to go home, as their applications will be carefully considered before deciding upon them.

☞The Cabinet is occupied in discussing the general policy to be pursued in reference to the Foreign relations of the government, in prospect of threatened political convulsions and movements in Europe. General Pierce is reported to be very liberally disposed towards republican efforts abroad.—Messrs. Cushing and Davis are understood to sympathize with the President in this respect. Dobbin and Campbell stand indifferent. Mr. Guthrie is cool, prudent and judicious—with the generous impulses of his Kentucky heart inclining him to favor the liberal cause, he is restrained by the scruples of a wise and deliberate discretion. Mr. Marcy is charged with an excessive conservatism in the matter.

☞An extraordinary fall of snow took place at Syracuse, N. Y. on the morning of the 3d inst. It commenced at 3 in the morning, and at 7 o'clock two feet of snow had accumulated—being at the rate of six inches an hour! We do not believe the records of meteorology will furnish any parallel to this.

☞The boiler of the steamboat Bee exploded on Wednesday last, on the Ohio river, below Evansville. Smith, one of the pilots, and Bryan, the steward, were killed. Reeder, another pilot, Stark, the first clerk, and four deck hands, were dangerously scalded.

☞Death Penalty.—In the House of Representatives of Ohio the bill for the abolition of capital punishment was defeated on the question of engrossment by one vote—yeas 33, nays 34.

☞DR. WM. E. HORNER, Professor of Anatomy in the University of Pennsylvania for more than thirty years past, and the author of several celebrated Anatomical works, died at his residence in Philadelphia, on Tuesday last, in the 60th year of his age. His loss is a public one.

☞It is reported that large deposites of gold have been discovered on Horse Shoe creek, in the Northern part of the Cherokee Nation, and large numbers of persons are leaving Kentucky for the location.

☞The first fresh Shad of the season were sold in Lancaster on Monday last.

☞Wood costs $35 a cord in Rome, and $55 in Naples.

Next Conference to be held in Baltimore City Station, March 1st, 1854.

The Philadelphia Murder.

The Grand Jury have found a true bill against Arthur Spring for the murder of Ellen Lynch and Hannah Shaw. His trial has been fixed for to day. The evidence, as detailed, is very strong against him—and, if true, there is no possible mode of escape from the penalty of the law. The principal witness against him, is his own son, to whom the father had communicated the whole particulars of the bloody tragedy. The papers remark that the demeanor of Spring at the examination was cool, indifferent and reckless to a shocking degree.—A fiendish smile played about his mouth all the while; and one writer says: "Never did we witness, under similar circumstances, anything that would begin to equal, in bardihood and obduracy, the behavior of this monster; and we hope that we may be spared, for the rest of our days, the pain of looking upon such a sight again."

☞The Natives and former residents of Frederick county, Md., had a social meeting and entertainment at the Eutaw House, in Baltimore, on the evening of the 10th inst., which appears to have been a very pleasant affair. Amongst those present was the Hon. JAMES COOPER, Senator from Pennsylvania. A number of toasts were drunk, and speeches made. Mr. Cooper was toasted as follows:

James Cooper, Senator of the State of Pennsylvania—Frederick County claims him as her son; Pennsylvania is honored by his distinguished public services.

Mr. Cooper arose, whilst the whole company cheered, and, after silence was observed, made a very lengthy address, during which he expressed himself highly gratified upon finding so many of the natives of his own county enjoying themselves at the festive board.

He reviewed in touching sentiments the scenes and friendships of his youth, glanced briefly at the prominent scenes of his political life and the continued opposition he had encountered from many quarters, yet notwithstanding, by clinging to the principles of his youth, and determining to pursue an upright and honorable course, he had succeeded in accomplishing his purposes as an honest man. He was surrounded by his brethren, and he would speak freely and unreservedly of the course he had pursued, feeling assured that they would approve. [Cheering.]

The Governor of Maryland here arose and made some remarks complimentary to Senator Cooper, as the counsel in the late Gorsuch slave case, which the Senator acknowledged in a handsome flow of ideas.

☞Graham's Magazine for April, has been received. It is the second of the new series, enlarged to 144 pages. The articles are mainly original, and from approved sources. The Pilgrims of the Great St. Bernard, and a day at Waterloo, are numerously illustrated; and the whole book is got up with much neatness, and is highly interesting.

Altered Notes.—There are in circulation five dollar bills of the Farmers' and Mechanics' Bank of Carroll county, Md., altered from one's of the same bank. The alterations are so well executed as to deceive the best judges, unless the difference between the one's and the five's of issue of that bank be remembered. The best rule to detect them is to place them side by side with the one dollar bill, when it will be found that they are the same, save the alteration. It is a dangerous note, and the public should be cautioned against it.

☞Autographs of Henry Clay being in great request, the National Intelligencer announces that the American Colonization Society has some blank certificates of membership, signed by him, as President of the Society, a few months previous to his death. One of these, with the name of the purchaser inserted, attested by the Secretary of the Society, will be forwarded by mail to any person who will send to the Secretary, Rev. W. McLain, thirty dollars, the amount required by the constitution of the Society to constitute a life member.

Hempfield Railroad.—Menongahela city, Pa., in town-meeting, has recommended an additional subscription of $25,000 to the stock of the Hempfield Railroad. This, with a previous subscription of a similar amount on the part of the borough, and private subscriptions of some $20,000, make an aggregate sum of $70,000 by the borough alone.

☞The new bill regulating the public printing has passed both branches of the Legislature, and has no doubt been signed by the Governor. It provides for the appointment by the Governor of a Superintendent of Public Printing, at a salary of $800 per annum.

The Last Day of the Session.

Surely, no American can have read the proceedings of the last hours of the late Session of Congress, without a blush.—Both Houses presented scenes of violence, confusion, haste and vulgarity, of a truly disgraceful character. Such paragraphs as these occur very frequently in the report:—

"Great confusion prevailed all over the Hall, and the galleries and lobbies were crowded with spectators."

Again, says the reporter:—

"Sundry violent struggles were occasionally made to obtain the floor, a hundred or more gentlemen rising at once, and shouting out 'Mr. Speaker,' and severally holding up the bills they were so anxious to have considered. The scenes occasioned much laughter."

Once more he pauses in his labors, to send this over the wires:—

"It was now eight o'clock. The galleries were densely crowded, and lobby members present increased in numbers. So much noise and confusion prevailed, that it was next to impossible to comprehend the legislative proceedings. Members were continually going to and returning from the outer room, in which were liquid and solid refreshments. Amendments to Navy bill still discussed and voted on. Some members, weary of the dry proceedings, retired to chat with lobby friends and smoke cigars. The falling of a lady's fan from the gallery, hitting an honorable below upon the head, but not seriously wounding him, excited some little merriment. Just about this moment a burly old member came into the Hall with a hunk of bread and ham in his hands eating thereof most heartily."

Two hours later he records:—

"It is now half past ten o'clock, the number of spectators seeming to increase rather than diminish, the excitement all over the Hall continuing without abatement."

Towards midnight, or later, says the telegraph,

"Mr. Houston, the Chairman of Ways and Means was, from the effects of excessive labor, unable to explain the various amendments. The clerks had become hoarse from continued reading. The sofas in the lobbies were now occupied by members asleep, and only a few within the bar seemed to be interested in the dull proceedings of the Indian Appropriation Bill."

At half past three the following circumstance occurred:—

"A drunken man of genteel appearance was aroused from sleep in the Senate Chamber, and commenced blaspheming in a loud and boisterous manner, disturbing the proceedings of the Senate. The officers were directed to put him out,—this was accomplished with great difficulty, and he was committed to prison under the Capitol."

In the midst of such unusual scenes as these, the most important measures were passed, and others no less important rejected. Is it not shameful, that the affairs of this country should be transacted with such headlong carelessness? If the affairs of the most insignificant private establishment were so managed, it would not merely bring down upon its proprietors instant ruin, but universal derision and contempt.

☞A Washington letter in the N. York Commercial Advertiser says—

The crowd of office seekers does not diminish—it is said to be on the increase, and will be so, until the plunder is all disposed of. Then the disappointed will go home and spend time in unavailing complaints of the ingratitude of President Pierce—each man asserting that he, individually, made Mr. Pierce the President.

Col. Benton is still here. He considers himself as a power in the State.

His attempt to browbeat Mr. Pierce did not, however, succeed. He had railed for a long time, and before everybody, against the reported appointments of Mr. Marcy and Mr. Cushing—each of whom he abused in the most shameful manner. Mr. Marcy heard of it, when he arrived here, and coolly remarked that "he expected a squall from some quarter, but that there was no capsize in that squall." When the same things were told to President Pierce he said "let him come to me."

Col. Benton did go to him, and the scene is described as having been very rich. After all Col. Benton's fierce denunciation of Mr. Cushing and Mr. Marcy, declaring that they would ruin the administration, and themselves also, he threatened to bring the matter "before the popular branch of the national legislature." Mr. Pierce is reported to have replied that there were many persons who were not particularly pleased at his nomination, nor very desirous of his election, but who now assumed to take a great deal of interest in the success of his administration. This particularly suited Col. Benton's case. All this took place before the Cabinet nominations were sent in.

The President is reported to have made a very suitable reply, on another occasion, to an attempt to exercise an improper influence over him. A person representing some Democratic club called upon him, the other day, to make certain demands, in the name of the club. The President told him, in reply, that he would always be willing to receive and hear the applications of citizens, but that he recognized no clubs.

Later From California.

The steamer Uncle Sam arrived at New York on Tuesday from Aspinwall, whence she sailed on the 8th instant. She brings one hundred passengers and over $300,000 in specie, and reports nearly $4,000,000 of gold dust on the way to New York in the steamers California and Panama.

The dates from San Francisco are to February 16th. The mining intelligence, generally, is of a cheering character. New discoveries continue to be made, and miners report a large yield from the diggings. Rubies, emeralds, and diamonds had been found in the interior. Emigration to Australia had nearly ceased.

The grain crops are very forward, and promised a rich harvest. The weather at San Francisco was delightful.

At San Francisco the prices of the leading staples were fairly maintained, excepting breadstuffs, which had materially declined. The importations of flour were heavy, and prices had declined to $12 a $13 for choice and irregular brands.

War Clouds.

The Washington correspondent of the N. Y. Journal of Commerce writes:

The state of our foreign affairs as connected with the present tone and temper of the people of this country, is becoming very interesting, and to some very alarming.—The questions involved in present disputes with Great Britain are precipitated upon the government by the tone of the Inaugural, the speeches of leading Senators, and also an important portion of the public press.

The American ground is, distinctly, that in all matters relative "to American continents," (the British North American colonies excepted.) Great Britain must give way to us; or, as Mr. Mason stated it today, these continents must be free from British aggression. Now, if Great Britain will not abandon the Bay Islands, and the Musquito protectorate, and the Belize, &c., will the government attempt to drive her out? Will they resort to war as a remedy? The speeches of Mr. Douglass and Mr. Mason look toward it.

Mr. Mason declared to-day that England had gone as far as she could go on this continent, consistently with our safety; and he referred to new aggressions, on the part of Great Britain, of which we have advices today. Mr. Mason, of course, represents the policy of the Administration on the subject of Foreign affairs, and his views, as expressed to-day, fall in with those of the Inaugural Address.

The greatest importance is to be attached to the views thrown out by leading Senators, on public questions, at the present extra session.

Mr. Mason intends to insist upon action, at this session, on the Tehuantepec resolutions.

Accidents.

The Mountain Sentinel of Thursday week, gives the following chapter of accidents:—

On Wednesday last, a laborer, Mr. Owen Reily, was killed on McGrann & Reily's section, Pennsylvania Railroad. While engaged at work about a derrick, used for raising large stone, the pivot of the same broke, and the huge beam fell upon him with such force that he survived but an hour.

Patrick Hannegan, aged 30, a laborer for Messrs. McGrann & Reily, in attempting to jump on a car opposite McGinley's hotel, Summit, on Thursday last, fell upon the track and was run over. The wheels of the car passed over his right thigh and arm, mangling him in an awful manner. He died in a few moments.

On the same day, the same car at the head of Plane No. 4, ran over John McAvoy, aged about 30, who worked for Rutter & son at the tunnel, cutting both legs off below the knees. He died on Sunday.

Friday afternoon, on the section of Messrs. Burke & Gondor, new A. P. R. R., Wm. Shay, aged 48, was killed by a bank of earth falling upon him in the pit where he was working.

Same day Michael McGovern, a workman for John McGovern, section 18, Portage R., had an arm badly broken. He was caught between two carts as they were passing each other.

Sunday afternoon, on the section of McGrann and Reily, Richard Correll and his horse fell over a bank 25 feet, breaking several of his ribs and injuring the horse

The American Exploring Expedition on the River Amazon.—The Panama Echo learns from Captain Thomas, who arrived in the Nueva Grenada, that the day before the steamer sailed an express arrived, overland, from the American exploring expedition on the Amazon, that the explorers had reached a point on the river, in nearly a direct line, some three hundred and seventy-five miles distant. There they had found a magnificent and most productive country, with resources beyond conception. Cotton sheeting stood at 50 cents per yard; coffee and indigo at 2 cents, and all other products at proportionate prices—cutlery, especially, being very high. The imports are fully equal in their rates to the exports.

It seems, by the statements of Capt. H. and others, that the Yankee steamer will secure the bonus of $10,000 offered by the government for the first steam vessel navigating the waters of the Amazon into Bolivia, and also the entry of her entire cargo duty free.

Extraordinary Outrage.

The St. Louis Republican relates the particulars of an infamous outrage which occurred in Clark county, Mo., at a recent quarterly conference of the Methodists.—Just as the morning exercises were finished, a Dr. Trabue came up to Rev. C. H. Kelly, presented a pistol, and, laying his hand upon him, said, "You are my prisoner; cross your hands; I am the Marshal of Missouri." Kelly was charged with being an escaped convict from the penitentiary in Iowa, and, in spite of the representation that he was preaching in Clark county at the time alleged, Dr. Trabue persisted in taking him away.

After Kelly's hands were tied and his legs chained, Trabue said, "This man has stolen a horse, and I'll take him to justice." He was taken out of the house, notwithstanding the remonstrances of his friends, placed upon a horse, and secured by a chain being passed under the horse, and fastened on each foot with a heavy padlock.

The pretended Marshal and his assistants proceeded as rapidly as possible to Fort Madison, Iowa, where the penitentiary is located, and presented their victim to the keeper. He at once declared that he was not the man sought for—one Charles H. Kelly, who had escaped from the penitentiary—and that he bore no resemblance to him. He was, of course, discharged.

☞A heart-rending casualty occurred in this vicinity on Tuesday. A gentleman left the city with his wife and infant child in a sleigh, to go to his residence, a few miles out of town. In order to shield the infant from the weather, it was wrapped up very closely, and as it remained quiet they supposed it was asleep; but arriving at the place of their destination, it was taken from its manifold wrappers, when the fearful fact became apparent that it had been smothered to death. The infant was but four or five weeks old. The anguish of the parents can better be imagined than described.—Portland Advertiser.

Wheat in Ohio.—According to official returns Ohio has averaged thirty millions of bushels of wheat for the last three years, of which, sixteen millions are a surplus, after feeding all its own inhabitants.

Murder.

An affray occurred near Mercersburg, on Friday evening, (March 11,) between two negroes named Johnson Burgess and Nathan Freeman, which resulted in the death of the latter, and is but another of the many cases of crime almost daily added to the list caused by whiskey. The father of Burgess, it seems, keeps a sort of groggery, or at least sold whiskey; and on the evening of the murder, Freeman went there to get his bottle filled. From some cause unknown to us, Burgess wanted the bottle, when a scuffle ensued in which Freeman got Burgess down. While in this position Burgess succeeded in getting a knife from his pocket and stabbed Freeman seven times. The wounded man died the next day. Burgess escaped and has not yet been apprehended.—Franklin Rep.

The Tragedy in Philadelphia.—The Philadelphia American says the evidence already obtained, points, almost beyond a doubt, to Arthur Spring as the murderer of Mrs. Lynch and Mrs. Shaw. It is also said, the dirk-knife, the leaden pipe, several twenty dollar gold pieces, &c., have been traced to a source from which it would almost seem impossible for an explanation to be made. Spring, who strongly protests his innocence, is in custody; so is also his son. Lynch, the husband of Mrs. Lynch, on arriving in New York, got upon a spree. Information of his wife's fate reached him on Friday evening. The news aroused him from his debauch, but the blow which was stunning and overwhelming, was too much for him to bear, and he was completely prostrated and unmanned, and reason partially dethroned. When discovered, he was helpless, and his mind fast verging on insanity. He had already contemplated suicide. By proper restoratives he was in a condition to accompany the officers to Philadelphia on Monday evening. Spring, who is about 45 years of age, some 12 years ago, kept a public house out near Fairmount. He then moved to Market, near thirteenth, where he carried on a confectionary, and where he became deeply involved. After taking the benefit of the insolvent law, he was prosecuted for obtaining a cask of liquor by fraud, and was sentenced to a short term of imprisonment. Upon his liberation he went to New York, and opened a public house. His business there was broken up by his conviction and sentence to Sing Sing, for robbing one of his boarders. After serving out his imprisonment there, he came back to Philadelphia, and has been lounging about ever since.

Desperate Attempt to Murder.—Sarah Smith, a colored girl, has been arrested in Chester county, Pa., charged with attempting to murder a little daughter of A. W. Penneck, aged 5 years. It appears she took the child to a barn, and, notwithstanding its cries and entreaties, put a rope around its neck, and drew it tight until she silenced it by strangulation, when, supposing it dead, she loosened the rope and threw her on her face in the garden. Fortunately it was discovered by an Irish servant girl soon after, but it was several hours before it could articulate a word. The negro girl was arrested, and made a confession alleging she intended to murder the child for slapping her face.

Dreadful Design.—The Angelica, N. Y. Reporter corrects a misapprehension in regard to the motive which inspired the two men convicted in Allegheny county of placing obstructions on the track of the Erie Railroad, and assigns one almost too horrible for belief. The Reporter says, strange as it may seem, the facts elicited by the evidence showed conclusively that there was no animosity on the part of the two individuals against the Company, or that there was the least cause of complaint against the Company; but that it was a preconcerted plan to throw the "Express" Train from the track for the purpose of robbing the passengers! in the general melee. This was proved on the trial.

Youthful Criminals.—In the New York City Criminal Court on Saturday week, 3 boys under 19 years of age, convicted of highway robbery, were brought up for sentence.

Judge Beebe, in passing sentence, remarked that it was a melancholy sight to behold three young men, just branching into manhood, convicted of a crime next only to murder. The Court could, said he, imprison you all for the term of your natural lives. But the Court does not feel disposed to imprison you for your life time. The lowest term within the power of the Court will deprive you of your liberty for a long time; and the probability is that you, Kelhoe, will never behold your aged mother again, who is now in Court so sorely afflicted at your departure. The sentence of the Court is, that each of you be confined in the State Prison at Sing Sing for the term of ten years and one month.

While the officers were in the act of removing the prisoners to their cells in the city prison, a heart-rending scene was witnessed. The mothers, and other relatives of the felons, rushed through the entrance, screaming and lamenting. They clung around the necks of the convicts, and it was with difficulty the police officers could get them to retire and allow them to perform their duties in remanding the prisoners.

WYOMING, Pa. March 15.—The Wyoming Seminary, at Kingston, near Wilkesbarre, Pa., took fire last night. The south end of the building was all destroyed, with its contents, except a portion of the instruments. The valuable library was burnt; and the pupils, numbering 300, lost nearly all their books and clothing. The institution was under the charge of the Rev. R. Nelson. The loss is estimated at $21,000, and the insurance is $7,500.

A Generous Offer.—It is said that Gen. Abner Curtis, a great shoe manufacturer of East Abington, Mass., has issued proposals to some twenty or thirty young men in his manufacturing ware house, that if they will, the current year, be prudent, economical, and faithful in their duties—show a balance sheet of savings, individually, of one hundred and fifty dollars, and consummate marriage on or before the first day of January next ensuing, then he will add, as a New Year's present, a house lot upon his domain, and one hundred dollars for the purpose of assisting in the erection of a cottage-house, severally, for his corps of assistants aforesaid.

☞In St. Paul, Minnesota, the people have, this winter, enjoyed one hundred consecutive days of good sleighing.

The Illustrated Magazine of Art.

THIS is decidedly the BEST, CHEAPEST, and most MAGNIFICENT MAGAZINE ever published.

The first three numbers just out have at once placed it at the head of the Magazines or any publication of the day, upon which no expense will be spared to render it in every respect worthy of its name—a Magazine of Art.

The Engravings preparing for future numbers are in the hands of the first artists of America, England, France, and Germany; and a Series of Tales, of the most interesting description, entitled, "The School of Life," written and illustrated by Anna Mary, daughter of William and Mary Howitt, will shortly appear; as well as an historical novel, entitled, "The Dead Bridal," illustrative of the most interesting period in the history of the Venitian Republic, by Jonathan Freke Slingsby, of the Dublin University Magazine, and contributions from William and Mary Howitt, Percy B. St. John, and other writers of distinction in America and Europe. The greatest care will be manifested in every department of production. The Paper will be of the first manufacture, and the Ink supplied from the celebrated Printing Ink Establishment of Messrs. Lawson & Co. of Paris. Single copy, 25 cents; Volume, Half-yearly, $1 50; Four Copies, $5; Ten Copies, $10; Twenty-one Copies, $20. Postage, 2½ cents each number.

[From the Syracuse Journal.]

The Illustrated Magazine of Art is the very best publication of the kind of which we have any knowledge. Its engravings are of a decidedly superior kind, and its articles of a high literary character. We say this not as a puff, but as our deliberative conviction, after a careful and scrutinizing examination of the work. There is nothing flashy about it, but every department betokens a disposition on the part of the Publisher to make it valuable and instructive. The articles on King John and the Magna Charta; Gossip about Peru; the Jewish People; Lord Wm. Russell; the French Revolution, &c., are of a character which would adorn any work. Its illustrations, numbering twenty-four, among which are King John refusing to sign the Magna Charta, at Oxford, in 1215; View of the City of Lima; Apollo Gallery, in which Louis Napoleon was made Emperor; Portrait of Lord Wm. Russell; View of the Castle of Segovia; Returning from a Fair; Double size of page View of the Interior of St. Paul's Cathedral, during the interment of the Duke of Wellington, &c., are greatly in advance of those of many other publications. Price only 25 cents a number.

EDUCATION FOR EVERY FAMILY.

MAY 1ST WILL BE PUBLISHED, PRICE 12½ CENTS, PART THE FIRST OF

THE POPULAR EDUCATOR.

THIS will be found to be the most comprehensive Educational Work ever issued from the Press. It will include a regular course of instruction in English and English Grammar, French, German and Latin. Also, Lessons in Arithmetic, Geometry, Geography, Geology, Natural History, Astronomy, Botany, Biography, Ancient History, Architecture, Physiology, Music, and other useful sciences, most of which will be illustrated with Engravings and Diagrams. The Lessons in Geography will be accompanied by a series of capital Maps, engraved on Copper, expressly for this Work. The series will include also a course of Lessons in Drawing, comprehending the numerous branches of this beautiful and useful art, [illegible], the Human Figure, Architecture, Landscapes, Animals, Machinery, Objects, Perspective, &c., with suitable Engravings and Diagrams.

The various departments are entrusted to Professors and Teachers of the highest eminence, [illegible] The Articles and Lessons will be written in a clear and familiar style, so that young persons, and those who have not had the advantages of early education, by the Study of [illegible] obtain a safe guide and assistant to all that can increase their information, or [illegible] their minds and characters. It is the determination of the Proprietor to have the Popular Educator so conducted that children equally with their parents may be interested, and general education promoted on the soundest principles, and by the most [illegible] methods.

Relief for Man and Beast!

THE HORSEMAN'S HOPE, OR FARMER'S FRIEND.

ARRANGEMENTS are now made for supplying the public with this great remedy, which has been used with wonderful success by those who have had an opportunity of testing its virtues. No family should neglect to have a supply, and all persons would do well to keep some by them to be used in case of accident to Man or Horse.

For Horses &c.—For the cure of Sprains, Bruises, Saddle and Collar Galls, Swelled Joints, Stiffness and Weakness of the Loins, Old Sores, Scratches, &c. &c.

For Man.—For the cure of Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sprains, Swellings, Bruises, Sciatic Pains, Stiffness and Weakness of the Limbs—and other accidents and afflictions to which men and animals are liable.

Prepared only by SMITH and ATKINSON, 288 Baltimore street, Baltimore—and for sale by SAMUEL H. BUEHLER, Gettysburg.

☞ This preparation has been before the public a sufficient time to have its merits fairly tested, and the reports received from various parts of the country prove it to be one of the most valuable remedies ever offered, both for Man and Horse.

Great Medicine for Worms in Children & others.

SMITH & ATKINSON'S
AMERICAN WORM-KILLER.

THIS Medicine has been manufactured by SMITH & ATKINSON for several years, and has been used with great success by Physicians and others in various parts of the United States, many thousand bottles have been sold, and the universal approval it has met with in all quarters where it has been introduced, proves that it needs only a trial to satisfy the most incredulous of its great value, the size of the bottle has been enlarged so that it is one of the cheapest as well as most valuable Worm Medicines ever offered to the public, and a person buying this article gets the full value of his money in quantity as well as quality, which is a fact well worth remembering.

Be careful to ask for "SMITH & ATKINSON'S AMERICAN WORM KILLER," and see that the name of SMITH & ATKINSON is on the Bottle in raised letters.

Another Scientific Wonder!
GREAT CURE FOR DYSPEPSIA!
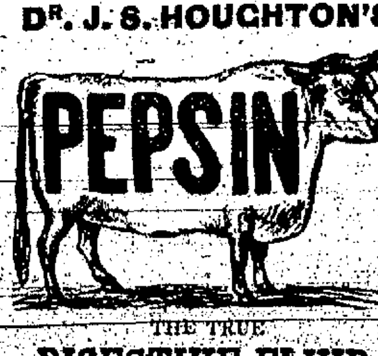
DR. J. S. HOUGHTON'S



THE TRUE

DIGESTIVE FLUID,

OR, GASTRIC JUICE.

PREPARED from Rennet, or the fourth Stomach of the Ox, after directions of Baron Liebig, the great Physiological Chemist, by J. S. Houghton, M. D., Philadelphia, Pa.

"I DIGEST." Such is the true meaning of the word Pepsin. It is the chief element, or Great Digesting Principle of the Gastric Juice—the Solvent of the Food, the Purifying, Preserving and Stimulating Agent of the Stomach and Intestines. It is extracted from the Digestive Stomach of the Ox, thus forming a True Digestive Fluid, precisely like the natural Gastric Juice in its Chemical powers, and furnishing a complete and perfect substitute for it.

This is Nature's own Remedy for an unhealthy Stomach. No art of man can equal its curative powers. It contains no Alcohol, Bitters, Acids, or nauseous Drugs. It is extremely agreeable to the taste, and may be taken by the most feeble patients who cannot eat a water cracker without acute distress. Beware of Drugged Imitations. Pepsin is not a Drug.

Half a teaspoonful of Pepsin, infused in water, will digest or dissolve Five Pounds of Roast Beef in about two hours, out of the Stomach.

SCIENTIFIC EVIDENCE!

☞ The Scientific Evidence upon which this remedy is based is in the highest degree Curious and Remarkable.

Call on the Agent, and get a Descriptive Circular, gratis, giving a large amount of Scientific Evidence, from Liebig's Animal Chemistry; Dr. Combe's Philosophy of Digestion; Dr. Pereira on Food and Diet; Dr. John W. Draper, of New York University; Professor Dunglison's Physiology; Prof. Silliman, of Yale College; Dr. Carpenter's Physiology; &c., together with reports of Cures from all parts of the United States.

PEPSIN IN FLUID AND POWDER.

Dr. Houghton's Pepsin is prepared in powder and in Fluid Form—and in Prescription vials for the use of Physicians. The powder will be sent by Mail, free of Postage, for one Dollar, sent to Dr. Houghton, Philadelphia.

☞ Observe this!—Every bottle of the genuine Pepsin bears the written signature of J. S. Houghton, M. D., sole proprietor, Philadelphia, Pa. Copy right and Trade Mark secured.

☞ Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicine. Price, $1 per bottle.

Agents.—S. S. Forney, Gettysburg, wholesale and retail Agent; J. W. Douglass, Chambersburg, C. A. Morris & Co., York.

$500 CHALLENGE.

WHATEVER concerns the health and happiness of a people is at all times of the most valuable importance. I take it for granted that every person will do all in their power, to save the lives of their children, and that every person will endeavor to promote their own health at all sacrifices. I feel it to be my duty to solemnly assure you that WORMS, according to the opinion of the most celebrated Physicians, are the primary causes of a large majority of diseases to which children and adults are liable; if you have an appetite continually changeable from one kind of food to another, Bad Breath, Pain in the Stomach, Picking at the Nose, Hardness and Fullness of the Belly, Dry Cough, Slow Fever, Pulse Irregular—remember that all these denote WORMS, and you should at once apply the remedy:—

HOBENSACK'S WORM SYRUP.

An article founded upon Scientific Principles, compounded with purely vegetable substances, being perfectly safe when taken, and can be given to the most tender infant with decided beneficial effect, where Bowel Complaints and Diarrhea have made them weak and debilitated; the Tonic properties of my Worm Syrup are such, that it stands without an equal in the catalogue of medicines, in giving tone and strength to the Stomach, which makes it an Infallible remedy for those afflicted with Dyspepsia, the astonishing cures performed by this Syrup after Physicians have failed, is the best evidence of its superior efficacy over all others.

THE TAPE WORM!

This is the most difficult Worm to destroy of all that infest the human system, it grows to an almost indefinite length, becoming so coiled and fastened in the Intestines and Stomach, affecting the health so sadly as to cause St. Vitus' Dance, Fits, &c., that those afflicted seldom if ever suspect that it is Tape Worm hastening them to an early grave. In order to destroy this worm, a very energetic treatment must be pursued, it would therefore be proper to take 6 to 8 of my Liver Pills so as to remove all obstructions, that the Worm Syrup may act direct upon the Worm, which must be taken in doses of 2 Tablespoonfuls 3 times a day. These directions followed have never been known to fail in curing the most obstinate case of Tape Worm.

HOBENSACK'S LIVER PILLS.

No part of the system is more liable to disease than the LIVER, it serving as a FILTERER to purify the blood, or giving the proper secretion to the bile, so that any wrong action of the Liver affects the other important parts of the system, and results variously, in Liver Complaint, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, &c. We should, therefore, watch every symptom that might indicate a wrong action of the Liver.—These Pills being composed of Roots and Plants furnished by nature to heal the sick; Namely, 1st. An EXPECTORANT, which augments the secretion from the Pulmonary mucous membrane, or promotes the discharge of secreted matter. 2d. An ALTERATIVE, which changes in some inexplicable and insensible manner the certain morbid action of the system. 3d. A TONIC, which gives tone and strength to the nervous system, renewing health and vigor to all parts of the body. 4th. A CATHARTIC, which acts in perfect Harmony with the other ingredients, and operating on the Bowels, and expelling the whole mass of corrupt and vitiated matter, and purifying the Blood, which destroys disease and restores health.

TO FEMALES.

You will find these Pills an invaluable medicine in many complaints to which you are subject. In obstructions either total or partial, they have been found of inestimable benefit, restoring their functional arrangements to a healthy action, purifying the blood and other fluids so effectually as to put to flight all complaints which may arise from female irregularities, as headache, giddiness, dimness of sight, pain in the side, back, &c.

None genuine unless signed J. N. Hobensack, all others being base imitations.

☞ Agents wishing new supplies, and Storekeepers desirous of becoming Agents must address the Proprietor J. N. Hobensack, Philadelphia, Pa.
